TWO ACCIDENTS KILL 39 SOLDIERS

Dulles Warns China To Keep Peace

19 GIs And Two Crewmen Die In Plane Crash

Burned Wreckage Of Airliner Found On Western Ridge

MCCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash., Sept. 2 (AP)—A chartered airliner that vanished on a flight from California last night carried its 19 soldier passengers and two crew members to their deaths just below the crest of a timbered western Washington ridge.

The 21 burned bodies were found today in a small area around the broken and charred wreckage of the Regina Airlines DC3. The plane had plunged into tall timber about 15 miles northeast of Centralia—only 25 or 30 miles short of its destination at McChord Air Force Base.

Trees Sheer Off Wings

It struck near the 2,700-foot level, at an angle that led some airmen to conjecture that it crashed with its nose downward. It had not radioed of any trouble.

The trees had sheared off the wings. All that was intact was the tail fin and a rear portion of the fuselage.

The 19 soldiers were flying from Ft. Ord, Calif., to new assignments at Ft. Lewis, Wash. The plane was chartered by the Army from the Miami, Fla., air firm. Its last radio report had been over Portland, Ore. It was flying through rain and mist.

The plane's pilot was Capt. Eugene Jones, 44, of Miami., who is survived by his widow and a 22-year-old daughter there. The co-pilot was G. W. Dorsett, who was reported to be from California.

Timbermen Find Wreckage

While a fleet of search planes was taking to the air this morning, the wreckage was found by two timber company employes, Arnold Englund and Wardith French.

They said they had heard a dull thud, but no explosion, while working at a gravel pit in the region shortly after 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. They thought a big tree had fallen and disregarded the noise.

After hearing of the plane's disappearance today, they set out on a search and found the wreckage about half a mile from the pit.

Military and civilian agencies started on the task of bringing out the bodies of the victims. A bulldozer was sent to scrape out a passable road to the scene to facilitate the recovery operation.

'Skinny' Wainwright, War Hero, Dies At 70

Corregidor Stand Made Him Symbol Of Dogged Courage

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 2 (AP)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, the gaunt hero who kept his troops fighting the Japanese while America gathered strength for World War II, died in a coma today.

The stubborn defender of Corregidor—known to the world as "Skinny"—died in Brooke Army Hospital a day after his second brain stroke in 18 days.

Army doctors said rough treatment Wainwright suffered as a prisoner of the Japanese contributed to his death.

He died at 1:27 p.m. (EST). Wainwright was 70 on Aug. 23.

Old Horse Soldier

He went to the hospital July 6 from "Fiddlers Green," the home he bought after retiring from the Army and named for the legendary place where brave cavalrymen go after death. He was an old horse soldier.

Wainwright suffered his first cerebral thrombosis, formation of a blood clot on the brain, Aug. 13. Army doctors said yesterday he had been stricken with a second stroke. He lapsed into a coma and never became conscious again.

At the time of his death, Wainwright was chairman of the board of Time Life Insurance Co. here.

He retired from the Army on Aug. 31, 1947, after more than 45 years of service. His last post was as commanding general of the 4th army.

Awarded Medal Of Honor

When American troops first began fighting in Korea against overwhelming odds, Wainwright said: "I feel a kindred spirit for our men in Korea . . . but they have hope. At Corregidor there was no hope."

After Wainwright's liberation from the Japanese, President Truman awarded him the Congressional Medal of Honor for his determined stand at Corregidor, the last American fortress to block conquest for The Philippines in the first days of the war.

Legion Cheers Blunt Words By Secretary

Reds Told Manchuria Won't Be Safe If War In Korea Is Resumed

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 2 (AP) — Red China was warned today by Secretary of State Dulles that it might provoke a war between itself and the West by aggression against Korea or Indochina.

Just before Dulles' warning came at the national convention of the American Legion, the legion itself demanded full scale action, including use of atomic and hydrogen bombs, to drive Communists from Korea if peace negotiations fail.

Dulles was cheered repeatedly by the legionnaires, here 32,000 strong for their convention. He spoke with deliberate calmness as he laid down what appeared to be a new government policy of warning would-be aggressors against security infringements.

Warning Brings Loudest Cheers

The legionnaires cheered loudest when he voiced the warning over Indochina.

"There is the risk that, as in Korea, Red China might send its own army into Indochina," Dulles said. "The Chinese should realize that such a second aggression could not occur without grave consequences which might not be confined to Indochina.

"I say this soberly in the interest of peace and in the hope of preventing another aggressor miscalculation."

Dulles was cheered again when he said the Communists could not count on "privileged sanctuary" in Manchuria if they renewed aggression against South Korea, and when he said the United States would not sit "indefinitely" at a peace conference with the Communists.

Reds' Good Faith Questioned

"We are always ready to negotiate in good faith but we expect the good faith to be mutual," he added. "We shall not lend ourselves to Communist maneuvers designed to win their end through guile."

The legion questioned the good faith of the Communists in the forthcoming Korean peace talks and approved a report of their Foreign Affairs Committee demanding:

"If the peace negotiations are not successfully concluded, then the full military strength and might of our government, with every useable weapon at its disposal, be employed to drive the Communist forces out of Korea."

Reds Plan To Release Dean In Day Or Two

Where Soldiers Drowned

While rescuers in small boats search for victims, others crowd around bodies of drowned soldiers on the beach of a lake at Fort Bragg, N. C., following the capsizing of a boat yesterday. Twenty soldiers perished and two others are hospitalized.

Allies Request Advance Notice, Receive Reply

SEOUL, Thursday, Sept. 3 (AP)—A South Korean Army General said today Maj. Gen. William Dean was expected to be released by the Communists within a day or two.

Maj. Gen. Choi Suk, officer in charge of prisoner exchange for South Korean repatriates, said this was indicated in the Communist reply to an Allied request for 24-hours advance notice on the return of the former 24th Infantry Division commander.

Choi's remark to newspapermen revealed for the first time that the Allies had asked 24 hours notice or that the Communists had replied.

The Reds were expected to hold Dean until the last and release him with much propaganda fanfare.

Choi gave no other details and there was no official word immediately from the U. N. Command.

89 More Americans Are Released By Reds

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, Sept. 3 (AP)—The first of 89 Americans were returned from Communist prison camps today in apparently good health and high spirits.

The 30th day of Operation Big Switch brought back an initial shipment of 50 Americans including seven officers and the 43 sergeants. The first American to be released was Sgt. Wyatt Byrd, U. S. 2nd Division, of Neely, Miss.

The highest ranking officer repatriated was a captain.

The returnees answered eagerly as their names were called and jumped down from the high, Russian-built vehicles.

The Communists promised repatriation today of 300 prisoners, including 200 ROKs, 89 Americans, 5 British and Canadians.

Thirty nine Americans, 5 British and 6 Canadians in the second exchange at Panmunjom today apparently had one thought in common—to put as much space between them and their Communist guards as they could in the shortest possible time.

As Marine officers called their names, the men hurtled over the tailgates of the trucks, without waiting for ladders or assistance.

20 Lose Lives In Boat Mishap At Fort Bragg

Engineer Assault Craft Upsets During Training Problem

FT. BRAGG, N. C., Sept. 2 (AP)—A boat loaded with Army engineers capsized on a lake during a training problem on this sprawling military reservation today and 20 soldiers drowned. Two were hospitalized.

The Ft. Bragg safety director, Otto Edwards, estimated that about 40 soldiers were in the two engineer assault craft bolted together end to end. He said the normal load is only about 25 men, and "the boat apparently was overloaded."

The Army said at Washington it believed it was the worst training accident, not involving aircraft, since World War II.

The Public Information Office said most of the victims were basic trainees.

Boat Makes Turn, Dips Water

The men had been taken out on the mile-long lake for an orientation ride after bolting together the two sections, each about 14 feet long. First reports were that the craft was smaller and carried fewer men.

The PIO said the boat was returning to shore when it made a turn and dipped water, causing some of the men to become panicky.

Edwards quoted one survivor as saying, "I started to swim away and two or three other guys started grabbing at me." The man made it ashore and later helped rescue two others, he added.

Many Unable To Swim

Edwards said he understood about half of the men could not swim and that many of the non-swimmers hindered others who may have reached shore otherwise.

Some of the survivors were helped to shore by soldiers who had not been on the training ride. others swam out. One almost reached land, then vanished.

Maj. Gen. Joseph P. Cleland, Ft. Bragg commander, convened an investigating board that started work less than two hours after the accident.

The soldiers were members of the 406th Engineer Brigade. Names of the victims were withheld until their next-of-kin could be notified.

Western Allies Formally Invite Soviet To Parley

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France today formally invited Russia to join in a Big Four foreign ministers conference beginning Oct. 15 in an effort to achieve "real progress toward peace."

In identical notes, the Western Powers restricted the proposed talks to the future of trouble-torn Germany and Austria, but noted that a solution of the problem of divided Germany would provide "an essential part of a world settlement."

Free Elections Are Key

Such a solution, the Allied notes said, "could be expected to pave the way for fruitful discussions of other major questions."

Russia had suggested earlier in the interchange of notes that the meeting be broadened to discuss other outstanding world problems.

Soviet demands for including Red China in the talks, originally proposed by the Western Allies last July 15, were rejected.

As for Germany, the Western powers emphasized that free elections are "the key to any all-German settlement" looking toward the restoration of German unity.

Lugano Meeting Proposed

The Allies proposed that the foreign ministers meet at the lakeside town of Lugano, Switzerland, near the Italian-Swiss frontier.

Today's development came only four days before West Germany goes to the polls in a crucial general election which may decide whether Western Germany joins the common European defense setup.

The Allies, in their notes, turned down Russia's call for a provisional German government before any free elections are held.

W. Germany Mobilizes Youths As Invasion By Reds Mounts

Thousands Swarm Across Frontier To Upset Election

BONN, Germany, Sept. 2 (AP)—West Germany mobilized a civilian army of four million youths and athletes today to protect Sunday's critical elections. Then officials reported thousands of Communist terrorists were swarming tonight across the border from Soviet-occupied East Germany.

West German authorities said they had proof that the mass invasion of Red agents was a plot, directed by Moscow, to use riot, sabotage, fear and murder in the fight to prevent re-election of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's pro-Western government.

Over 7,000 Reds Seized

The officials said the total of arrested Red toughs swelled to more than 7,000, with 2,000 arrests in the last 24 hours. But still the Communists came in a growing invasion which authorities feared might engulf West Germany's police force.

Thousands of Communists were reported coming in boldly by train, carrying forged travel permits, while uncounted hundreds of others slipped across the 600-mile frontier in remote forest areas which police could not possibly seal off.

A thousand such agents were plucked from a single train at the border city of Helmstedt tonight. Another 400 were on a Hamburg-bound train from Berlin and 656 on a train in Bebra. Authorities said thousands almost certainly avoided capture. At least 10,000 agents were believed to have been sent from East Germany.

Alleged Murder Plot

Three captured agents confessed that some assassinations were plotted against West German political leaders on Moscow's black list, the Interior Ministry reported. Officials declined to give further details of the alleged murder plot.

The hastily organized volunteer force of youngsters and athletes will help police protect polling places Sunday against swift attacks.

Bell System, CWA Agree

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—A long-simmering dispute between the Bell System and 22,000 of its long distance telephone workers ended today with provision for pay hikes and other contract improvements.

Jointly announcing they had reached agreement, the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the CIO Communications Workers of America (CWA) said the settlement would cost the company $3,200,000 in pay boosts alone.

They did not give the size of individual increases, but said, for example, that in New York—the highest paid city—plant craftsmen would be raised to a basic $106.50 a week and operators to $62.50.

However, the union separately noted that by the agreement the CWA had "gained substantially the $2 to $3 pattern established in 24 other settlements in Bell System bargaining" for 257,000 employes.

Union members in 390 communities in 40 states and the District of Columbia will have until Oct. 5 to ratify or reject the agreement. Should they reject it, an existing contract will remain in force.

Hammarskjold Won't Rehire Fired Quartet

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 2 (AP)—U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold announced tonight he will not re-hire four American U. N. employes who were discharged after U. S. loyalty investigations. Their firings were ruled illegal by a U. N. tribunal yesterday and it ordered them reinstated.

McCarthy May 'Call In' Wilson

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he would "call in" Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and Army Secretary Robert Stevens if necessary to obtain records showing who approved hiring of Army civilians suspected of being pro-Communist.

McCarthy's Senate permanent investigations subcommittee is holding closed hearings in New York on possible Communist influence in the armed forces.

Without disclosing the number of suspected individuals, McCarthy told newsmen the subcommittee was "very interested in the people who cleared them."

"If the military in New York does not produce the records we are seeking," he said, "we will call in Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and the secretary of the army, Robert Stevens.

"I am sure that Mr. Wilson won't go along with any whitewash or cover-up and that he is just as interested in getting at the bottom as we are."

U. N. Council Won't Act On Morocco Question

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 2 (AP)—Security Council action on the French-Moroccan situation was ruled out today when Colombia announced it would vote against an Asian-Arab proposal to put the question on the agenda.

Colombia's decision made it impossible for the sponsors to get the necessary seven affirmative votes in the 11-nation council.

Born In U. S., Not Greece, Lias Says

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 2 (AP)—William G. (Big Bill) Lias, rotund owner of Wheeling (W. Va.) Downs race track, emphatically denied today at a deportation hearing that he was born in Greece.

On the contrary, the 368-pound Lias declared he was born in Wheeling and hence is a citizen of the United States.

The government charges Lias with re-entering the United States illegally at Detroit in 1949 from Canada. At that time, the government claims, Lias was an alien without a passport.

Acting Examiner George P. Spine threw Lias' World War I draft registration card and his 1945 application for a marriage license at him in an effort to prove he was a native of Gythion, Greece.

Aged "Father" Of Arizona's Polygamous Settlement Dies

SHORT CREEK, Ariz., Sept. 2 (AP)—Joseph Smith Jessop, aged and bearded patriarch of the polygamous colony at Short Creek, died last night.

The 83-year-old leader, looked up to as the father of his community, succumbed after days of grieving over the fate that had descended upon his town.

The State of Arizona raided the tiny settlement near the Utah border July 26 and arrested virtually every man, woman and child. They were charged with conspiracy and are now awaiting a preliminary court hearing.

Jessop's death cast more gloom over the village, already saddened by the removal of some of its women and children to Phoenix. They are in state custody.

One of his grandsons, Edson Jessop, 35, began making a coffin of pine boards. And the women began sewing his special burial clothes. A plot to receive his body is being readied in the little cemetery on the edge of town.

Hale and hearty until recent days, despite his deep-running grief, Jessop had been weeding his garden as late as last week.

The elder Jessop was one of the 35 men, 72 women and 15 juveniles who were arrested in the July raid. He was jailed in Kingman and later released on bond, as were most of the others.

The state claims he has two living wives. He has 21 children, the oldest 64 and the youngest 4; 112 grandchildren, and 150 great-grandchildren.

U. N. Court Ruling Will Be Probed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—The Senate internal subcommittee will launch a sweeping investigation into the reasons why a United Nations tribunal branded "illegal" the ouster of 11 Americans who were lopped off the U. N. payroll in connection with loyalty probes.

This was announced tonight by Robert Morris, chief counsel of the subcommittee. He said the inquiry, which will be held in New York and will probably start the week of Sept. 21, was ordered by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), subcommittee chairman.

He said that in addition to inquiring into the reason for the U.N. tribunal's action, the subcommittee will delve anew into the alleged Communist backgrounds of a number of Americans formerly employed by the U. N.

In finding that the 11 employees were fired illegally in connection with U. S. loyalty investigations, the U. N. tribunal ordered four reinstated and seven others were awarded total damages of $122,500.

Truman May Appear On Television For Pay

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—Negotiations are under way with former President Harry Truman for what should be his first commercial appearance on television, a spokesman for the TV-Radio Workshop of the Ford Foundation said today.

The spokesman said the negotiations still were in progress for Truman's appearance on the Workshop's forthcoming "Excursion", a weekly program over NBC for young people, and it was hoped he might appear on the second of the series Sept. 20.

Variety, entertainment trade publication, said the former President would be paid about $8,000.

Wainwright's Death Distresses M'Arthur

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, once Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's commanding officer in the Pacific, said today he was greatly distressed to learn of Wainwright's death.

MacArthur said in a statement issued from his office here:

"I am greatly distressed at the death of Gen Wainwright. We had been lifelong friends since cadet days at West Point. He served the republic long and honorably, and his military career was one of great luster and distinction. The Army will mourn him."

HELL, Mich., Sept. 2 (AP)—Inhabitants of Hell broiled today as backyard thermometers climbed to 103 degrees.

But residents of the southeastern Michigan township weren't complaining—thermometers soared to 105 yesterday.

As did most of Michigan, baking in a nine day heatwave, Hell residents could cast longing looks at Paradise.

WESTMINSTER, Md., Sept. 2 (AP)—Herbert C. Myers, 76-year-old Westminster meat packer, died today in a Baltimore hospital.

Nation's Longest Heat Wave In 20 Years Starts Breaking

[By The Associated Press]

The nation's most prolonged heat wave in 20 years started breaking Wednesday night after taking at least 104 lives and causing crop loss of several hundred million dollars.

Much cooler air swinging eastward across the Dakotas was due to reach Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa by Thursday and extend into Michigan and central Illinois by Thursday night, the Chicago Weather Bureau said.

The East Coast probably will get relief from the heat by the weekend, the Weather Bureau said cautiously. But the current mass of cool air, of which so much is expected, may slow down or become heated before it reaches the Atlantic, the bureau added.

This present heat wave was unique in two respects—the vast area from the Rockies to the Atlantic which it covered, and the tenacity with which it hung on. And it continued Wednesday to break its own records.

Wednesday was the hottest September day ever in a score or more of cities across the country. It was the ninth straight day in Chicago with temperatures of more than 95 and the ninth day in Cleveland on which new heat marks were set. Such statistics were commonplace, by now.

Thousands of persons collapsed from heat prostration.

Water lines began to drop alarmingly in reservoirs, creeks and holes used by farmers as parts of the heat-belt edged into the third week without measurable rainfall.

Over-taxed water lines broke down in some big cities, inconveniencing millions of residents.

British Device Called Best H-Bomb Defense

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) said today that the British have perfected "a guided missile or rocket that appears to offer a better defense against the H-bomb or A-bomb than anything we have."

Wiley, back here after attending the United Nations session in New York, told a reporter that the new British device "is said to travel between two and three thousand miles an hour.

"It is so fast that it can seek out and destroy any enemy plane before the plane could reach its target," Wiley said. "We are working on the same thing here, but they appear to be ahead of us in this field."

Engineer Assault Craft Upsets During Training Problem

FT. BRAGG, N. C., Sept. 2 (AP)—A boat loaded with Army engineers capsized on a lake during a training problem on this sprawling military reservation today and 20 soldiers drowned. Two were hospitalized.

The Ft. Bragg safety director, Otto Edwards, estimated that about 40 soldiers were in the two engineer assault craft bolted together end to end. He said the normal load is only about 25 men, and "the boat apparently was overloaded."

The Army said at Washington it believed it was the worst training accident, not involving aircraft, since World War II.

Boat Makes Turn, Dips Water

The men had been taken out on the mile-long lake for an orientation ride after bolting together the two sections, each about 14 feet long. First reports were that the craft was smaller and carried fewer men.

The PIO said the boat was returning to shore when it made a turn and dipped water, causing some of the men to become panicky.

Edwards quoted one survivor as saying, "I started to swim away and two or three other guys started grabbing at me." The man made it ashore and later helped rescue two others, he added.

Many Unable To Swim

Edwards said he understood about half of the men could not swim and that many of the non-swimmers hindered others who may have reached shore otherwise.

Some of the survivors were helped to shore by soldiers who had not been on the training ride. others swam out. One almost reached land, then vanished.

Maj. Gen. Joseph P. Cleland, Ft. Bragg commander, convened an investigating board that started work less than two hours after the accident.

The soldiers were members of the 406th Engineer Brigade. Names of the victims were withheld until their next-of-kin could be notified.

Western Allies Formally Invite Soviet To Parley

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France today formally invited Russia to join in a Big Four foreign ministers conference beginning Oct. 15 in an effort to achieve "real progress toward peace."

In identical notes, the Western Powers restricted the proposed talks to the future of trouble-torn Germany and Austria, but noted that a solution of the problem of divided Germany would provide "an essential part of a world settlement."

Free Elections Are Key

Such a solution, the Allied notes said, "could be expected to pave the way for fruitful discussions of other major questions."

Russia had suggested earlier in the interchange of notes that the meeting be broadened to discuss other outstanding world problems.

Soviet demands for including Red China in the talks, originally proposed by the Western Allies last July 15, were rejected.

As for Germany, the Western powers emphasized that free elections are "the key to any all-German settlement" looking toward the restoration of German unity.

Lugano Meeting Proposed

The Allies proposed that the foreign ministers meet at the lakeside town of Lugano, Switzerland, near the Italian-Swiss frontier.

Today's development came only four days before West Germany goes to the polls in a crucial general election which may decide whether Western Germany joins the common European defense setup.

The Allies, in their notes, turned down Russia's call for a provisional German government before any free elections are held.

W. Germany Mobilizes Youths As Invasion By Reds Mounts

Thousands Swarm Across Frontier To Upset Election

BONN, Germany, Sept. 2 (AP)—West Germany mobilized a civilian army of four million youths and athletes today to protect Sunday's critical elections. Then officials reported thousands of Communist terrorists were swarming tonight across the border from Soviet-occupied East Germany.

West German authorities said they had proof that the mass invasion of Red agents was a plot, directed by Moscow, to use riot, sabotage, fear and murder in the fight to prevent re-election of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's pro-Western government.

Over 7,000 Reds Seized

The officials said the total of arrested Red toughs swelled to more than 7,000, with 2,000 arrests in the last 24 hours. But still the Communists came in a growing invasion which authorities feared might engulf West Germany's police force.

Thousands of Communists were reported coming in boldly by train, carrying forged travel permits, while uncounted hundreds of others slipped across the 600-mile frontier in remote forest areas which police could not possibly seal off.

A thousand such agents were plucked from a single train at the border city of Helmstedt tonight. Another 400 were on a Hamburg-bound train from Berlin and 656 on a train in Bebra. Authorities said thousands almost certainly avoided capture. At least 10,000 agents were believed to have been sent from East Germany.

Alleged Murder Plot

Three captured agents confessed that some assassinations were plotted against West German political leaders on Moscow's black list, the Interior Ministry reported. Officials declined to give further details of the alleged murder plot.

The hastily organized volunteer force of youngsters and athletes will help police protect polling places Sunday against swift attacks.

Bell System, CWA Agree

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—A long-simmering dispute between the Bell System and 22,000 of its long distance telephone workers ended today with provision for pay hikes and other contract improvements.

Jointly announcing they had reached agreement, the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the CIO Communications Workers of America (CWA) said the settlement would cost the company $3,200,000 in pay boosts alone.

They did not give the size of individual increases, but said, for example, that in New York—the highest paid city—plant craftsmen would be raised to a basic $106.50 a week and operators to $62.50.

However, the union separately noted that by the agreement the CWA had "gained substantially the $2 to $3 pattern established in 24 other settlements in Bell System bargaining" for 257,000 employes.

Union members in 390 communities in 40 states and the District of Columbia will have until Oct. 5 to ratify or reject the agreement. Should they reject it, an existing contract will remain in force.

Hammarskjold Won't Rehire Fired Quartet

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 2 (AP)—U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold announced tonight he will not re-hire four American U. N. employes who were discharged after U. S. loyalty investigations. Their firings were ruled illegal by a U. N. tribunal yesterday and it ordered them reinstated.

McCarthy May 'Call In' Wilson

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he would "call in" Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and Army Secretary Robert Stevens if necessary to obtain records showing who approved hiring of Army civilians suspected of being pro-Communist.

McCarthy's Senate permanent investigations subcommittee is holding closed hearings in New York on possible Communist influence in the armed forces.

Without disclosing the number of suspected individuals, McCarthy told newsmen the subcommittee was "very interested in the people who cleared them."

"If the military in New York does not produce the records we are seeking," he said, "we will call in Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and the secretary of the army, Robert Stevens.

"I am sure that Mr. Wilson won't go along with any whitewash or cover-up and that he is just as interested in getting at the bottom as we are."

U. N. Council Won't Act On Morocco Question

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 2 (AP)—Security Council action on the French-Moroccan situation was ruled out today when Colombia announced it would vote against an Asian-Arab proposal to put the question on the agenda.

Colombia's decision made it impossible for the sponsors to get the necessary seven affirmative votes in the 11-nation council.

Born In U. S., Not Greece, Lias Says

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 2 (AP)—William G. (Big Bill) Lias, rotund owner of Wheeling (W. Va.) Downs race track, emphatically denied today at a deportation hearing that he was born in Greece.

On the contrary, the 368-pound Lias declared he was born in Wheeling and hence is a citizen of the United States.

The government charges Lias with re-entering the United States illegally at Detroit in 1949 from Canada. At that time, the government claims, Lias was an alien without a passport.

Acting Examiner George P. Spine threw Lias' World War I draft registration card and his 1945 application for a marriage license at him in an effort to prove he was a native of Gythion, Greece.

Truman May Appear On Television For Pay

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—Negotiations are under way with former President Harry Truman for what should be his first commercial appearance on television, a spokesman for the TV-Radio Workshop of the Ford Foundation said today.

The spokesman said the negotiations still were in progress for Truman's appearance on the Workshop's forthcoming "Excursion", a weekly program over NBC for young people, and it was hoped he might appear on the second of the series Sept. 20.

Variety, entertainment trade publication, said the former President would be paid about $8,000.

U. N. Court Ruling Will Be Probed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—The Senate internal subcommittee will launch a sweeping investigation into the reasons why a United Nations tribunal branded "illegal" the ouster of 11 Americans who were lopped off the U. N. payroll in connection with loyalty probes.

This was announced tonight by Robert Morris, chief counsel of the subcommittee. He said the inquiry, which will be held in New York and will probably start the week of Sept. 21, was ordered by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), subcommittee chairman.

He said that in addition to inquiring into the reason for the U.N. tribunal's action, the subcommittee will delve anew into the alleged Communist backgrounds of a number of Americans formerly employed by the U. N.

In finding that the 11 employees were fired illegally in connection with U. S. loyalty investigations, the U. N. tribunal ordered four reinstated and seven others were awarded total damages of $122,500.

Wainwright's Death Distresses M'Arthur

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, once Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's commanding officer in the Pacific, said today he was greatly distressed to learn of Wainwright's death.

MacArthur said in a statement issued from his office here:

"I am greatly distressed at the death of Gen Wainwright. We had been lifelong friends since cadet days at West Point. He served the republic long and honorably, and his military career was one of great luster and distinction. The Army will mourn him."

Paradise, located on Whitefish Bay in the Upper Peninsula, recorded a cool 78 Tuesday.

Aged "Father" Of Arizona's Polygamous Settlement Dies

SHORT CREEK, Ariz., Sept. 2 (AP)—Joseph Smith Jessop, aged and bearded patriarch of the polygamous colony at Short Creek, died last night.

The 83-year-old leader, looked up to as the father of his community, succumbed after days of grieving over the fate that had descended upon his town.

The State of Arizona raided the tiny settlement near the Utah border July 26 and arrested virtually every man, woman and child. They were charged with conspiracy and are now awaiting a preliminary court hearing.

Jessop's death cast more gloom over the village, already saddened by the removal of some of its women and children to Phoenix. They are in state custody.

One of his grandsons, Edson Jessop, 35, began making a coffin of pine boards. And the women began sewing his special burial clothes. A plot to receive his body is being readied in the little cemetery on the edge of town.

Hale and hearty until recent days, despite his deep-running grief, Jessop had been weeding his garden as late as last week.

The elder Jessop was one of the 35 men, 72 women and 15 juveniles who were arrested in the July raid. He was jailed in Kingman and later released on bond, as were most of the others.

The state claims he has two living wives. He has 21 children, the oldest 64 and the youngest 4; 112 grandchildren, and 150 great-grandchildren.

Nation's Longest Heat Wave In 20 Years Starts Breaking

[By The Associated Press]

The nation's most prolonged heat wave in 20 years started breaking Wednesday night after taking at least 104 lives and causing crop loss of several hundred million dollars.

Much cooler air swinging eastward across the Dakotas was due to reach Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa by Thursday and extend into Michigan and central Illinois by Thursday night, the Chicago Weather Bureau said.

The East Coast probably will get relief from the heat by the weekend, the Weather Bureau said cautiously. But the current mass of cool air, of which so much is expected, may slow down or become heated before it reaches the Atlantic, the bureau added.

This present heat wave was unique in two respects—the vast area from the Rockies to the Atlantic which it covered, and the tenacity with which it hung on. And it continued Wednesday to break its own records.

Wednesday was the hottest September day ever in a score or more of cities across the country. It was the ninth straight day in Chicago with temperatures of more than 95 and the ninth day in Cleveland on which new heat marks were set. Such statistics were commonplace, by now.

Thousands of persons collapsed from heat prostration.

Water lines began to drop alarmingly in reservoirs, creeks and holes used by farmers as parts of the heat-belt edged into the third week without measurable rainfall.

Over-taxed water lines broke down in some big cities, inconveniencing millions of residents.

British Device Called Best H-Bomb Defense

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) said today that the British have perfected "a guided missile or rocket that appears to offer a better defense against the H-bomb or A-bomb than anything we have."

Wiley, back here after attending the United Nations session in New York, told a reporter that the new British device "is said to travel between two and three thousand miles an hour.

"It is so fast that it can seek out and destroy any enemy plane before the plane could reach its target," Wiley said. "We are working on the same thing here, but they appear to be ahead of us in this field."

Miners Welfare Fund Spending Exceeds Income

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—John L. Lewis and other trustees of the huge coal miners' welfare fund spent 7½ million dollars more than the fund received in the year ended June 30.

This was shown today in the annual report issued by the fund.

Failure of the fund to live within its income—despite a recent 33 1-3 per cent boost in the royalty paid into it—prompted speculation that Lewis may demand an even higher royalty from mine owners.

Rate Up, Production Off

Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers union and chairman of the fund's trustees, got mine operators to agree last fall to raise from 30 to 40 cents the royalty paid on every ton of coal produced. The union is now free to make new contract demands.

While the royalty rate went up, the number of tons produced went down, due to the industry's depressed state. The result was that fund revenues rose only 5 million dollars, from 126½ millions a year ago to 131½ million for the year ended June 30.

Expenditures, however, rose from more than 126 million to nearly 139 million, or more than 12½ million dollars. A total of 266,421 miners and members of their families received aid.

Hospitals Under Construction

This meant that expenditures exceeded royalty income by 7½ million dollars, a sum obtained by digging into reserves. Reserves were whittled down from 99½ million dollars to 92 million.

On top of increasing by heavy demands on the fund for pensions, hospital and medical care and other benefits to miners and their families, the fund is embarking on an ambitious hospital construction program in Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia.

He snubbed a wheel chair to a stone boat, or sledge, and jauntily drives his old mare, Bridget, from his trailer home near Louisville, Ky., to market amid wheeled traffic. Normally he uses the boat and horse for hauling on his truck farm. He says now he'll drive to Florida if someone will sponsor him. He and his fourth wife, Margaret, 25, have three children at home, and he says he has 15 others away from home.

Bridges Urges Review Of Defense Strategy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) called on the military high command today for a sweeping review of U. S. defense strategy in the light of Soviet Russia's claim of having mastered the secret of the hydrogen bomb.

Declaring that land armies may have become obsolete in an age of possible atomic warfare, Bridges urged the new Joint Chiefs of Staff to step up the construction of interceptors, fighters and guided missiles to guard American cities.

42 Die In French Air Crash

BARCELONETTE, France, Sept. 2 (AP)—Sure-footed mountain mules today picked their way down snow-capped Mt. Cemet in the French Alps with the bodies of 42 air crash victims including French concert violinist Jacques Thibault. He was enroute to entertain French troops in Indochina.

The victims died when a four-engine Air France plane bound for Saigon, Indochina, crashed into the side of the 10,000-foot mountain last night. Among the 33 passengers with the celebrated violinist were his accompanist, his daughter Suzanne, four children and one baby. All aboard were french except for four Indochinese, one German and a Swiss.

The wild terrain made the descent slow and dangerous. The bodies, so mangled as to make identification difficult, will be placed in an improvised chapel at Four, a mountain settlement.

POWs Neglected By Red Doctors

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea, Thursday, Sept. 3 (AP) — The first captured U. S. Army doctors freed by the Reds told yesterday of needless death and suffering because Red doctors were more concerned with teaching communism than practicing medicine.

One released doctor said the Reds sometimes refused to treat sick men until they signed propaganda statements of confessions of "crimes."

Another agreed that Red doctors definitely played favorites, giving most attention to "the ones who cooperated with the Chinese."

A freed American medical corpsman said bandages had to be made out of prisoners' underwear and that the prison camp hospital at Pyoktong was "just a death ward—they took the men there to die."

Capt. Sydney Esensten, of Minneapolis, released from 33 months in Red prison camps, told how Red doctors tried to cure malnutrition—the most frequent underlying cause of death—by inserting a piece of chicken or pork liver into the wall of a prisoner's chest.

"They called it a great Russian medical discovery and surprisingly some of the men seemed to get better after the operation," Esensten said.

Paper making was such an essential art that papermakers were exempt from military service during the Revolutionary war.

"Too Hot In Jail" Plea Is Accepted

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (AP)—A lawyer won freedom for his client today with this simple plea:

Biesiedzinski was arrested Friday on a court order obtained by his wife, Ann, 43, to prevent him from leaving the state. She is suing for separate maintenance.

100 Forest Fires Rage In Northern Ontario

TORONTO, Sept. 2 (AP)—More than 100 forest fires, seven out of control, roared in northern Ontario's parched timberlands tonight. On a 1,200-mile front from Manitoba to Quebec the fire hazard ranged from high to extreme under a blazing sun.

What rain has fallen lately has been light, and the lightning accompanying it has touched off new torches in the tinder-dry bush. About 15 new fires have started daily. Some 2,400 firefighters are battling the blazes.

OCEAN CITY, Md., Sept. 2 (AP)—State Police said a private plane which crashed today at nearby Isle of Wight airport injuring its two passengers apparently only had enough gasoline to get off the ground.

Two Baltimore men, James Mitchell, 30, the pilot, and Richard C. Reese, 28, were taken to Peninsula General Hospital in Salisbury.

Mitchell suffered deep forehead lacerations requiring 30 stitches. Reese had severe abrasions of the knees and left elbow, brush burns and a possible back injury.

Witnesses said the plane had just taken off when it dipped about 60 feet and plunged into the ground.

BARCELONETTE, France, Sept. 2 (AP)—Sure-footed mountain mules today picked their way down snow-capped Mt. Cemet in the French Alps with the bodies of 42 air crash victims including French concert violinist Jacques Thibault. He was enroute to entertain French troops in Indochina.

The victims died when a four-engine Air France plane bound for Saigon, Indochina, crashed into the side of the 10,000-foot mountain last night. Among the 33 passengers with the celebrated violinist were his accompanist, his daughter Suzanne, four children and one baby. All aboard were french except for four Indochinese, one German and a Swiss.

The wild terrain made the descent slow and dangerous. The bodies, so mangled as to make identification difficult, will be placed in an improvised chapel at Four, a mountain settlement.

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

Last week we called your attention to many of the things the Eisenhower Administration is doing to bring about economy and efficiency in the federal government. This week we are obliged to call attention to the action on the part of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue which seems to be an over-zealous reaction to the President's plea to cut expenses to the bone.

In his dismissal of many experienced and trusted employes it seems to me the Commissioner has cut too deeply and in the wrong place. He has given dismissal notices to a lot of the employes in the "post review" audit section in Washington and is transferring much of the work of this section to the field offices. This is a mistake.

I believe that if the administration and collection of income taxes and the interpretation of the income tax laws is to be devided among the various revenue districts without any coordination or review, it may mean the collapse of our federal tax system. The taxpayers are entitled to uniform treatment on the different issues that arise in many of the complicated tax problems. The action of the Commissioner may well have the result of a multiplicity of decisions on the same issue and the taxpayers will never know where they stand.

The House Ways and Means Committee and the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation are working on this problem and I am hopeful that the Commissioner can be persuaded to defer this action until a thorough study of the problem has been made.

While I am in a critical mood, I should also mention that I believe the Department of Agriculture is making a mistake by removing the indemnity on cattle infected with brucellosis (Undulant fever). I do not believe the cost of this program is great and it encourages the farmer to get rid of such cattle. I shall strongly urge the Secretary of Agriculture to reconsider this action.

This week I will be in Oakland to attend the annual banquet of the School Bus Operators Association on Friday, September 4 . . . On Saturday, September 5, I will speak at the Mountaindale Sunday School picnic in Frederick . . . Sunday, September 6, I will attend the Cumberland Horse Show . . . I will be with the Gaithersburg-Washington Grove Fire Department at Gaithersburg to join in its Labor Day Celebration on Monday, September 7. I am looking forward to spending a pleasant weekend with the people of the Sixth District.

THE PENT-UP PENTAGON

Administration is filling Bob Taft's prescription for the entrenched high brass. Shake well before losing.

Two conscripted admirals and two volunteer generals have beachheaded the terrain and announced the situation is well in triplicate.

Big man in works is Admiral Radford with a terrific muzzle velocity in his finger snap.

Congressional foes of the administration shuffle say Radford has more power than a motorcycle going down hill.

The admiral fills General Omar Bradley's spot as gavel-cracker of the joint chiefs of staff. This is the guy who really locks the cages at night.

The senators fear Radford's braided influence. They say the three branches of government are the legislative, the judicial and the Pentagonive.

But they felt the same way about Omar Bradley. In times of national stress and peril the military takes over like a trained nurse.

Instructions Cited For Air Alert

Sometime the week of September 20 sirens will wail, signaling statewide air raid alert. The exercise is termed "Operation Checkup" and is to educate the public on what is expected if an actual raid should occur.

State and county Civil Defense agencies are interested in two things: (1) Getting pedestrians off the streets; and (2) stopping all vehicular traffic.

Here is what to do:

When the three minute wailing of the siren is heard pedestrians should take cover. If downtown, go into stores or business establishments; if at home stay inside and call in children; if in an automobile, pull to the curb and turn off the motor.

When the all-clear sounds — three, one minute siren blasts — resume activity.

The alert will last about six minutes.

Vincent Wegman, general chairman of the annual ball to be held October 23, said that the Maryland State Police Association is soliciting ads among merchants here.

The result has been that some have confused the two campaigns.

Hungry Millions

Hunger is endemic in the world today, medical geographers of the American Geographical Society report. Two-thirds of the people of the world — or approximately 1,500,000,000—suffer from malnutrition. This doesn't mean that they are starving to death. Many aren't getting as much food as they need. Others may get enough in quantity but lack a balanced diet.

Such people do die much younger, on the average, and are more vulnerable to disease, but hunger is rarely the immediate cause of death.

The United States and Canada get enough to eat. Indeed, a major health problem here is obesity, which also shortens life and increases susceptibility to disease. Most of Europe gets enough to eat. The only exceptions there, says the report, are Spain, Portugal, Italy and East Germany. Other English-speaking countries—Australia and New Zealand—also have an adequate diet.

Elsewhere throughout the world, nations with a fairly adequate diet are a rarity. In the Middle East, only Turkey qualifies. In Latin America, only Uruguay, Paraguay and part of Argentina. In Africa, only Somaliland and Portuguese Guinea. In vast Asia there is enough for most people to eat in Formosa, Kashmir, Thailand, Cambodia, Tibet and Nepal.

Opinions differ as to what can be done about the problem of world hunger. War leaves fewer mouths to feed but makes drastic reductions in food production and distribution. A great deal could be done to fight hunger in times of relative peace, by improving food production and distribution.

One reason more has not been done is the belief that increases in the food supply would be more than matched by population increases, leaving the underprivileged more underprivileged than ever.

It is a problem that calls for attack with more vigor, though, and not solely for humanitarian reasons. As Seneca wrote long ago: "A hungry people listens not to reason, nor cares for justice, nor is bent by any prayers."

The Useful B-36

At the time of the Air Force's personal Pearl Harbor, a September day just a year ago, the feeling was that the 107 giant planes which had been damaged by a tornado were obsolete anyhow. By the time of the Carswell, Tex., disaster the whole nation knew of the capabilities of the Russian-built MIG-15. It was quite clear that the huge, relatively slow B-36 was terribly vulnerable.

But in the last year most of the nation's investment in the B-36s has been recouped. After the storm damage at Carswell, all of the 100-odd planes were repaired and modernized by the addition of four jet engines to the bank of six piston engines on each of the planes.

The airworthiness of the planes was well demonstrated by the mass flight which winged non-stop to Japan last week. The Air Force called it a "routine training flight." However, the base where the planes landed was the springboard for the strategic bombing raids on North Korea over the last three years.

On the heels of the announcement of the mass flight came news that the B-36 is also an aircraft carrier. Through use of a tripod mechanism, a mother B-36 can take off carrying in its bomb bay a supersonic F-84-8 fighter bomber. The jet can be launched and later retrieved in flight. There apparently is considerable flexibility in the tactical mission of this mother and son combination.

The fighter can serve as protector of the mother plane, or it can streak off on a photo reconnaissance or a bombing mission. There is also the possibility of launching a pilotless, radio controlled jet, which could become a guided missile.

All this late news about a plane many had written off as outmoded indicates that there is a lot of use in the old horse yet.

Signs Of Stability

Living costs in the United States reached an all-time peak in mid-July, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The index of consumer prices rose to 114.7, as compared to 114.5 in June and 113.6 last February. It is accurate to say that for the five-month period the trend was upward and in July it cost more to live than ever.

To say that, however, is not to suggest that inflation has gotten out of hand. It has not, and indeed there is no imminent danger of such a disaster. The rise in prices has been very slow, and the index as of mid-July was only half a point higher than it was in July, 1952. It was 12.7 points higher than in June, 1950, when the Korean war started.

Obviously the economy has been stabilized to an extent in recent months. True, it has been rather stable for a year. But it is only fair to ask what would have happened to the index if the Treasury had continued the cheap money policy of a year ago.

The index shows that the inflationary forces unloosed during these last few years have not yet exhausted themselves. They brought about dislocations and distortions that must be corrected if the economy is to be restored to real health.

The statement, frequently made, that the dollar is worth only 52 cents today is misleading. If prices generally can be brought into line with runaway wage rates, and the dollar remains at its present value, it will be incorrect to say that it is not worth 100 cents.

The 52-cent figure is an arbitrary one, based on the value of the dollar 15 years ago. If the figure of 100 years ago were used, it would be found that the dollar is worth 10 cents or less.

Stepping On Toes

In the wake of the administration's order calling for sharper cuts in federal expenditures, the bureaus are protesting in agony. "Congress is going to hear about this," the bureaucrats are saying. It seems that the economy directive has the effect of stepping on a lot of toes.

The bureaus hope, of course, that their protests will ease the economy directives if not eliminate them. For years the bureaus have had too much money, much of which was spent foolishly lest their appropriations be cut next time. The word economy is anathema to them. Bureaucrats would like to see it expunged from the dictionaries.

Washington newspapers contain news stories almost daily in which someone predicts that the economy drive will blow over, and that in a short time there will be more federal employees in Washington than ever. Economy drives in the past have always ended in that way, they say.

How To Keep Well

Bells For Bedwetters

It has been estimated that up to 16 per cent of all children are bedwetters. There is no need to be concerned when a youngster is less than 3 years old because this much time is needed to develop bladder control. Thereafter, enuresis should be given consideration.

The problem is a tricky one to handle and parents ought to determine the cause before attempting treatment. Some children stop wetting the bed after being punished but others become worse because they have no control and, so far as they are concerned, are doing no wrong. The same can be said of scolding, shaming, or making the tot feel he is different from other children. As a result, it is better to under-estimate rather than over-estimate the problem unil the origin has been determined.

When the child is still wetting the bed by the age of 4, a number of questions must be answered. The first concerns the condition of the kidneys and bladder because from 3 to 10 per cent of all bedwetters have an organic disturbance in this department. Abnormalities vary from defects in development to inflammation. In others there is lack of correlation between the nerves and the muscles of the bladder and surrounding tissues. Next on the agenda are the nervous and psychologic factors and most remedies revolve around these disturbances. Some have a scientific basis; others have not. The most popular suggestion is to keep the bladder from overfilling by limiting the fluid intake and awakening the youngster periodically through the night. This helps but may not teach the youngster bladder control unless he is awakened at the precise moment the bladder is full.

Primitive children are said to learn early control of this function because they sleep cuddled next to the mother during early life. Any accident awakens the mother immediately; she in turn shakes the child so that he regains sufficient consciousness to stop the flow. This is the basis behind the use of a modern mechanical gadget that is being advocated in the control of enuresis. It consists of a wired pad attached to a bell that is connected to a battery. A short circuit occurs when the pad becomes wet, which in turn rings the bell and awakens the child. Because the current generated by the battery is so small there is no chance of being shocked or burned by using the apparatus. The manufacturers of this appliance claim success in 90 per cent of a group of cases in which no particular cause could be found for bedwetting. Enuresis is less common in the summer because the body loses much of its fluid through the sweat glands rather than the kidneys. For this reason, scientists prefer to test in the winter the efficiency of a drug or gadget in the treatment of bedwetting.

To stimulate conscious control of the bladder, the start-and-stop technic may be practiced in the day. The child starts, stops for a few seconds, and then starts again. The old star system also helps. This plan emphasizes success rather than failure. Drugs such as belladonna, amphetamine, and ephedrine also have been used with varying degrees of success.

C. T. writes: What is the cause of loose stools every day?

REPLY

The most common cause of chronic diarrhea is a disturbance of the gastro-instestinal tract. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on diarrhea.

POLLEN AND POLIO

R. C. writes: Could pollen carry polio germs? I notice there are more cases of polio when the pollen count is high.

REPLY

No. It is merely a coincidence that the polio and pollen seasons synchronize.

CHEWING IS EXERCISE

REPLY

Any rise in temperature that occurs, as determined by the use of a mouth thermometer, results from local muscular action.

GO BATHING; NOT SWIMMING

Mrs. J. writes: My husband, 60 years old, won't go into the water at a summer resort because his doctor told him he has hardening of the arteries. What do you think?

REPLY

Why not have your husband ask his physician this question? While it is true that moderation in middle and old age is the best plan, it is possible that this man may enjoy the relaxing effects of the water if he doesn't behave like an exuberant boy at the old swimming hole. Activity should be gauged to the physical capacity.

White House Gives Merry-Go-Round Run-Around; V. J. Miller Construction Co. Wins Contract Despite Late Bid; Chief Usher Changes Story.

WASHINGTON—A contract for $41,614 worth of new paneling for executive mansion corridors was let at the White House the other day under peculiar circumstances.

The company that got the contract didn't have its bid opened until one day after the 3 p. m. August 17 deadline when the other four bids were in. This is highly unusual. Bids on government contracts are supposed to be opened simultaneously in the presence of all concerned.

But in this case the successful bid, that of the V. J. Miller Construction Company, was rushed in at the last moment, remained unopened all night, and when opened the next day turned out to be the low bid. The next highest bid, that of the Davis, Wick, Rosengarten Company, was for $42,255.

What added to the unusual circumstances was a mysterious phone call by the chief White House usher, Howell G. Crim, one hour AFTER the first four bids were opened, to a Bert Matthews telling him to get his bid in right away. However, Crim called the wrong Matthews.

Bert Matthews is with the Tuckman-Barbee Construction Company which did not bid on the White House contract. And when he protested that he didn't know what it was all about, but perhaps Crim wanted another Matthews who was with the V. J. Miller Company, White House Usher Crim abruptly ended the conversation.

The contract negotiations occurred when President Eisenhower was in Denver. The White House usher is the top permanent functionary in the executive mansion, and Mr. Crim has served there some years with a good record. However, attempts by this column to get to the bottom of the contract award resulted in one of the most unusual run-arounds in run-around Washington.

White House Explains

White House Usher Crim, asked by this column for an explanation for the delayed bid, at first said he had nothing to do with the Miller contract, that he was on vacation and that the bids had been handled by Roger Steffan, special assistant to the President. He added that he had gone to the bid-opening only as a spectator.

"I went down out of personal interest because I had never seen it. I was only a spectator," Crim said.

But when asked why the V. J. Miller bid was not opened with the others, Crim seemed to have more than a spectator's knowledge.

"We wanted to get this work done while the President was away," he replied. "So we invited four contractors to bid, and we specified the time the bids were to be opened. Miller come in the last minute. He had not been invited to bid but asked for permission to submit a bid. We decided to take it under advisement."

"Why wasn't the Miller bid opened on the spot?" Crim was asked.

"We wanted time to decide whether to consider the bid at all," Crim explained.

Asked about the mysterious phone call to Bert Matthews an hour after the first four bids were opened, Crim acknowledged that he made the call and had cut the conversation short when he found Matthews wasn't the right man.

"I was simply calling to find out if he was the agent for the V. J. Miller Company," he explained. "We didn't know anything about the company and I was calling to check on the bid."

"But I thought you attended the bid opening only as a spectator and that Roger Steffan handled the whole thing," Crim was asked. "It now looks as if you were taking a very active part in the whole matter."

Crim then reversed his previous statement that he was on vacation, said he had come back to work for a day or two.

The Merry-Go-Round

Roger Steffan, when questioned, flatly denied that he had anything to do with the contract. He said it had been handled by F. T. Gartside of National Capital Parks at the Interior Department.

Gartside, upon questioning, promptly stated that the contract was a White House matter and he had been instructed to refer all inquiries to the White House.

"We just talked to the White House," Gartside was told, "and they referred us to you."

Gartside thought this over, then asked for time to check with the White House.

A second call to him was met with instructions from his secretary to talk to Larry Smith, Interior Department public relations officer. Mr. Smith was obliging but frankly unfamiliar with the technical details of the White House contract. He finally put Gartside back on the phone.

Gartside explained that the unusual delay in opening Miller's bid was due to the fact that Miller had not yet inspected the White House.

"But Miller had inspected the White House and the secret service knew it."

"I realize that," Gartside replied, "but my chief, Mr. Horn, didn't."

"Who finally made the decision to open the Miller bid?"

"We received instruction," Gartside replied.

"What do you mean, you 'received instructions?'

"The White House says that you were in charge of the contract ar-

India's Lesson

The game of international broker can only be played by the most brilliant minds. At that ga , Tallyrand and Bismarck were masters. Woodrow Wilson tried it before and during the Paris Peace Conference and failed. Franklin D. Roosevelt tried it at Teheran and Yalta and he left a legacy of disaster behind him.

Nehru of India has placed himself in the position of being an international broker between the Eastern and the Western worlds. His main objective was to raise the stature of India as the leading power in Asia, the successor to Japan.

The first battle was with Great Britain, which granted India its independence within the Commonwealth. The Indian empire had been split into two separate countries, India and Pakistan.

Definitely In Peril

From Nehru's standpoint, India was in a precarious position, which became increasingly more difficult as Communist China emerged as an imperialistic military power, seizing, as one of its first acts, Tibet, thus directly menacing India. Furthermore, as Communist China's ambitions in Indo-China and Thailand become more apparent, India was definitely in peril.

Therefore, Nehru, with that twist in logic for which Orientals are so famous, joined up with the menacing power, while exerting political blackmail on the only European nation that had any interest in protecting India. The form of blackmail used is the constant threat of withdrawal from the Commonwealth.

With its troubles in Egypt, in Iran, in Malaya, Great Britain cannot afford to have any member of the Commonwealth secede at this time. Furthermore, the relationship between Great Britain and the Union of South Africa is such that were the Commonwealth to be weakened. South Africa might also pull out. Then there is little Ceylon, rich beyond our imagination in essential raw materials. It might follow India.

Therefore the British have been forced to take Nehru seriously and often to capitulate to him. Having tied up this arm of the problem, Nehru manipulated himself into the role of broker for Soviet Russia and Communist China in the United Nations. Adopting an attitude of neutrality in the Korean War, Nehru also became violently anti-Formosa, this often involving him in an anti-American attitude.

United States Humiliated

Nehru could well afford to be anti-American because he realized that our policy was to support Great Britain at any cost. All he needed to do to get the Americans to weaken their own position was to squeeze the British, who immediately put pressure on Dean Acheson's State Department, which capitulated. It was a smart game while it lasted. It produced the pro-Russian Korean truce, which is humiliating to the United States.

But it is precisely in that that Nehru made his mistake. The United States, despite its huge losses in men and wealth, does not take its foreign relations as seriously as it should. But the American people do take humiliation seriously. The Korean War is the first in which we have been defeated. As skillfully as the Washington psychologists try to cover up the defeat and its causes, so increasingly resentful do the American people become.

It is impossible for anyone, President Eisenhower or anyone else, to explain why when Generals MacArthur, Ridgway, Van Fleet, and Clark say that they could have won the Korean War, we lost it. It is impossible for anyone to explain why we signed a truce giving the Chinese Communists a victory, leaving them the means for the conquest of South Korea and for a major war on Japan.

Our people are not fools. They may not know all the little names on the map. They may not be able to speak half a dozen queer languages. They may not know all the refinements of psychological warfare. But they know when they have been had. And when they discover that, they get sore. They know that the trickster in this situation is India.

And if India had sat on the Political Conference, it could have developed that public opinion in this country would have supported a movement for us to get out of that Conference and to go it alone. Almost too late, the British realized that the antipathy in this country is not just another American twist of the British lion's tail. It is so strong and fundamental that it could have destroyed the whole structure of Anglo-American relations.

And maybe Nehru now understands that treachery does not pay.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Northern Democrats apparently have learned very little since November 1952 or they would not be asking the Southern Democrats to forget or surrender the fundamentals which have estranged them from the Democratic party.

As the meeting of the Democratic National Committee in Chicago approaches, there is much talk directed at the Southerners, telling them to "come in and bury the hatchet" or "to unite for victory" —just as if nothing had happened. Much of the talk emanating from Northern leaders resembles the tactics of certain negotiators on the international scene. They call for "peace offensives" but, when their proposals are analyzed, it is discovered they mean peace only on their own terms.

The friction between the two wings of the Democrati party is too deep-seated to be cured by exhortation. The first step toward harmony is to begin to understand that the Southern Democrats are conscientious in their adherence to certain principles and that, if the Northern Democrats want to make peace, they will have to exhibit a tolerance which they have not manifested in party councils for many years.

The Southern Democrats look askance, for instance, at the way the Northern faction has become the tool and instrument of "radicalism." This term is often rejected by the Northern Democrats, who say their creed is r ally "liberalism." To this the Southerners reply that any program which is based on compulsion and coercion instead of voluntarism is not true liberalism but something approximating totalitarianism.

Liberal Or Otherwise

The clash arises, of course, out of the effort of the Northern "liberals" to ram down the throats of the Southerners a compulsory FEPC—a piece of legislation that would empower a Federal government commission to tell an employer whom he shall hire as employes. Nor have the Southern Democrats ever swallowed the coercive features of collective bargaining which were originally introduced in the Wagner Labor Relations Act. The feeling against Trumanism and the New Deal and Fair Deal philosophy of government is so ingrained that it cannot be eradicated by a continuance of the bellicose attitude exhibited by Northern Democrats at the party's national convention in Chicago last year.

The argument over the so-called "loyalty" pledge need not be a barrier to party harmony. Loyalty to the ticket is taken for granted party politics, but the young "liberals" who made an issue of it at the last convention insulted the Southerners and unless that "loyalty" resolution is wiped out of the records at the Democratic National Committee's meeting in Chicago on September 14-15, the chances of healing the breach on other issues is lessened.

Right To Free Vote

Every individual feels that he has the right to vote as he pleases in a presidential election, even if he attends a party convention as a delegate. He would not be justified, of course, in using the party machinery locally in an election to oppose the choice of the national convention of his party, but he has a right to the expression of his own views at any time. To say to a member of the Democratic party —the party which prides itself on individual freedom and tolerance— that he must, even before knowing the platform or the identity of the candidate, pledge himself blindly as an individual to support the unknown is to violate the tradition of independence which Democrats have always cherished.

It is precisely the threat that a minority of delegates may bolt the party as individuals in a single election which makes it necessary for the majority to keep faith with party tradition in whatever it does. To interject a program of compulsion or to propose that freedom of contract be abolished in America is to espouse a fundamental philosophy alien to the Democratic Party—at least, so the Southerners feel.

When the Northern Democrats cease to toady to pressure groups which are hostile to the South and begin to perceive that reforms can be more quickly achieved by voluntary methods, the "Civil Rights" issue will no longer split the Democratic Party. If the Northerners really want peace, they might better start studying the basic issues that have caused the cleavage and come up with some proposals on that score rather than expect the Southern Democrats to come crawling back into the party in abject surrender. For the South today holds the balance of political power in America and its support cannot be won by assuming it is impotent or merely recalcitrant. The basic issues are still unsolved.

Matter Of Fact

The Dodge-Wilson-Eisenhower Letters

WASHINGTON

An important faction within the Eisenhower Administration is determined to sacrifice a serious American defense effort in favor of a balanced budget. For the time being, moreover, this faction appears to have the President's backing. These conclusions are very clearly suggested by a hitherto undisclosed and highly significant exchange of letters between the Budget Bureau, the Defense Department, and the White House.

Before Congress adjourned, Budget Director Joseph Dodge sent a form letter to Defense Secretary Charles Wilson. The meat of this letter was contained in the following paragraph:

"The fiscal year 1955 budget will have to show further substantial reductions from the fiscal year 1954 revised figures. These reductions will have to be at least equal to and may have to be greater than those already made in the fiscal year 1954 budget."

Wilson mulled over the Dodge directive for a couple of weeks, and then sent a reply. He pointedly reminded Dodge that "the Congress was informed by both the Secretary of Defense and the President that . . . the new Joint Chiefs of Staff would make an intensive and detailed study of all aspects of defense . . . Until the completion of the review of the military plan by the Joint Chiefs, it would appear undesirable to make an estimate as to the amounts required . . ."

With this polite but firm rejoinder, round one apparently went to Wilson. Round two started when Wilson received a second letter, this time from the President himself, shortly before the President left on his vacation. This letter closely followed the Budget Bureau line—indeed, it was almost certainly drafted by Dodge for the President's signature.

Like the Dodge letter, the President's letter told Wilson to "reduce current expenditures"—this being official language for stretching out defense spending. The letter urged Wilson to "correct" those Defense Department practices which had been criticized in Congress. Finally, the Eisenhower letter also called for reductions in the forthcoming Defense budget "beyond those indicated for fiscal 1954."

Wilson dutifully circulated this letter to top officials in the Defense Department. But Wilson's famous stubborness can be a virtue, and he repeated in his covering note that the Presidential letter meant "no change" in Defense planning, until after the new Joint Chiefs had completed their review.

To judge from his respose to both letters, Wilson is more aware than he once was of his grim responsibilities as Secretary of Defense. At any rate, Wilson clearly lost round two, since the President's letter uncompromisingly backed the line taken by Dodge in his original directive.

It is important to understand what Defense cutbacks "beyond those indicated for fiscal 1954" would mean. The reductions already made in the current defense budget come to well over $6,000,000,000, the great bulk of this money from the Air Force. A similar reduction from the current level would mean a Defense budget of around $28,000,000,000.

Defense "housekeeping" outlays alone—keeping the men in the armed forces paid and fed and clothed and transported—now runs to about $22,000,000,000 a year. This cannot be much reduced without greatly reducing force levels. A $28,000,000,000 Defense budget would thus hardly be sufficient to keep procurement of aircraft and other "hard goods" ticking over.

This is so even if unexpended balances were very heavily drawn on—which would knock subsequent budgets out of kilter. To take one example, a $28,000,000,000 Defense Budget would probably mean accepting an air strength level of about eighty-five groups, as against the 143 groups which the Joint Chiefs only last year laid down as the minimum requirement for American air strength. A Defense Budget of about $28,000,000,000, in short, simply will not permit any kind of real defense against the steadily growing Soviet air-atomic capability.

The Dodge and Eisenhower letters were, no doubt, more an expression of a fervent hope than a firm declaration of intentions. Yet they suggest the kind of pressures under which the new Joint Chiefs are operating, as they proceed with their "new look" at our defense levels.

There are, however, at least two factors which are operating against this pressure for a balanced budget at almost any cost. One factor is the Soviet hydrogen bomb, which had not been tested when the new chiefs were appointed, or when Dodge and the President wrote their letters to Wilson. Another factor is a new and careful study of our strategic situation, in the light of the Soviet air-atomic threat.

This new study, which will be considered in a forthcoming report in this space, is the last of a series, all of which point, not to less spending for our defenses, but more. These two factors are certain to weigh very heavily with the Joint Chiefs. They are also certain to weigh very heavily with President Eisenhower, on whom the awful responsibility of making the final decision rests.

Hungry Millions

Hunger is endemic in the world today, medical geographers of the American Geographical Society report. Two-thirds of the people of the world — or approximately 1,500,000,000—suffer from malnutrition. This doesn't mean that they are starving to death. Many aren't getting as much food as they need. Others may get enough in quantity but lack a balanced diet.

Such people do die much younger, on the average, and are more vulnerable to disease, but hunger is rarely the immediate cause of death.

The United States and Canada get enough to eat. Indeed, a major health problem here is obesity, which also shortens life and increases susceptibility to disease. Most of Europe gets enough to eat. The only exceptions there, says the report, are Spain, Portugal, Italy and East Germany. Other English-speaking countries—Australia and New Zealand—also have an adequate diet.

Elsewhere throughout the world, nations with a fairly adequate diet are a rarity. In the Middle East, only Turkey qualifies. In Latin America, only Uruguay, Paraguay and part of Argentina. In Africa, only Somaliland and Portuguese Guinea. In vast Asia there is enough for most people to eat in Formosa, Kashmir, Thailand, Cambodia, Tibet and Nepal.

Opinions differ as to what can be done about the problem of world hunger. War leaves fewer mouths to feed but makes drastic reductions in food production and distribution. A great deal could be done to fight hunger in times of relative peace, by improving food production and distribution.

One reason more has not been done is the belief that increases in the food supply would be more than matched by population increases, leaving the underprivileged more underprivileged than ever.

It is a problem that calls for attack with more vigor, though, and not solely for humanitarian reasons. As Seneca wrote long ago: "A hungry people listens not to reason, nor cares for justice, nor is bent by any prayers."

The Useful B-36

At the time of the Air Force's personal Pearl Harbor, a September day just a year ago, the feeling was that the 107 giant planes which had been damaged by a tornado were obsolete anyhow. By the time of the Carswell, Tex., disaster the whole nation knew of the capabilities of the Russian-built MIG-15. It was quite clear that the huge, relatively slow B-36 was terribly vulnerable.

But in the last year most of the nation's investment in the B-36s has been recouped. After the storm damage at Carswell, all of the 100-odd planes were repaired and modernized by the addition of four jet engines to the bank of six piston engines on each of the planes.

The airworthiness of the planes was well demonstrated by the mass flight which winged non-stop to Japan last week. The Air Force called it a "routine training flight." However, the base where the planes landed was the springboard for the strategic bombing raids on North Korea over the last three years.

On the heels of the announcement of the mass flight came news that the B-36 is also an aircraft carrier. Through use of a tripod mechanism, a mother B-36 can take off carrying in its bomb bay a supersonic F-84-8 fighter bomber. The jet can be launched and later retrieved in flight. There apparently is considerable flexibility in the tactical mission of this mother and son combination.

The fighter can serve as protector of the mother plane, or it can streak off on a photo reconnaissance or a bombing mission. There is also the possibility of launching a pilotless, radio controlled jet, which could become a guided missile.

All this late news about a plane many had written off as outmoded indicates that there is a lot of use in the old horse yet.

Signs Of Stability

Living costs in the United States reached an all-time peak in mid-July, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The index of consumer prices rose to 114.7, as compared to 114.5 in June and 113.6 last February. It is accurate to say that for the five-month period the trend was upward and in July it cost more to live than ever.

To say that, however, is not to suggest that inflation has gotten out of hand. It has not, and indeed there is no imminent danger of such a disaster. The rise in prices has been very slow, and the index as of mid-July was only half a point higher than it was in July, 1952. It was 12.7 points higher than in June, 1950, when the Korean war started.

Obviously the economy has been stabilized to an extent in recent months. True, it has been rather stable for a year. But it is only fair to ask what would have happened to the index if the Treasury had continued the cheap money policy of a year ago.

The index shows that the inflationary forces unloosed during these last few years have not yet exhausted themselves. They brought about dislocations and distortions that must be corrected if the economy is to be restored to real health.

The statement, frequently made, that the dollar is worth only 52 cents today is misleading. If prices generally can be brought into line with runaway wage rates, and the dollar remains at its present value, it will be incorrect to say that it is not worth 100 cents.

The 52-cent figure is an arbitrary one, based on the value of the dollar 15 years ago. If the figure of 100 years ago were used, it would be found that the dollar is worth 10 cents or less.

Stepping On Toes

In the wake of the administration's order calling for sharper cuts in federal expenditures, the bureaus are protesting in agony. "Congress is going to hear about this," the bureaucrats are saying. It seems that the economy directive has the effect of stepping on a lot of toes.

The bureaus hope, of course, that their protests will ease the economy directives if not eliminate them. For years the bureaus have had too much money, much of which was spent foolishly lest their appropriations be cut next time. The word economy is anathema to them. Bureaucrats would like to see it expunged from the dictionaries.

Washington newspapers contain news stories almost daily in which someone predicts that the economy drive will blow over, and that in a short time there will be more federal employees in Washington than ever. Economy drives in the past have always ended in that way, they say.

Bells For Bedwetters

It has been estimated that up to 16 per cent of all children are bedwetters. There is no need to be concerned when a youngster is less than 3 years old because this much time is needed to develop bladder control. Thereafter, enuresis should be given consideration.

The problem is a tricky one to handle and parents ought to determine the cause before attempting treatment. Some children stop wetting the bed after being punished but others become worse because they have no control and, so far as they are concerned, are doing no wrong. The same can be said of scolding, shaming, or making the tot feel he is different from other children. As a result, it is better to under-estimate rather than over-estimate the problem unil the origin has been determined.

When the child is still wetting the bed by the age of 4, a number of questions must be answered. The first concerns the condition of the kidneys and bladder because from 3 to 10 per cent of all bedwetters have an organic disturbance in this department. Abnormalities vary from defects in development to inflammation. In others there is lack of correlation between the nerves and the muscles of the bladder and surrounding tissues. Next on the agenda are the nervous and psychologic factors and most remedies revolve around these disturbances. Some have a scientific basis; others have not. The most popular suggestion is to keep the bladder from overfilling by limiting the fluid intake and awakening the youngster periodically through the night. This helps but may not teach the youngster bladder control unless he is awakened at the precise moment the bladder is full.

Primitive children are said to learn early control of this function because they sleep cuddled next to the mother during early life. Any accident awakens the mother immediately; she in turn shakes the child so that he regains sufficient consciousness to stop the flow. This is the basis behind the use of a modern mechanical gadget that is being advocated in the control of enuresis. It consists of a wired pad attached to a bell that is connected to a battery. A short circuit occurs when the pad becomes wet, which in turn rings the bell and awakens the child. Because the current generated by the battery is so small there is no chance of being shocked or burned by using the apparatus. The manufacturers of this appliance claim success in 90 per cent of a group of cases in which no particular cause could be found for bedwetting. Enuresis is less common in the summer because the body loses much of its fluid through the sweat glands rather than the kidneys. For this reason, scientists prefer to test in the winter the efficiency of a drug or gadget in the treatment of bedwetting.

To stimulate conscious control of the bladder, the start-and-stop technic may be practiced in the day. The child starts, stops for a few seconds, and then starts again. The old star system also helps. This plan emphasizes success rather than failure. Drugs such as belladonna, amphetamine, and ephedrine also have been used with varying degrees of success.

Why not have your husband ask his physician this question? While it is true that moderation in middle and old age is the best plan, it is possible that this man may enjoy the relaxing effects of the water if he doesn't behave like an exuberant boy at the old swimming hole. The Washington Merry-Go-Round

White House Gives Merry-Go-Round Run-Around; V. J. Miller Construction Co. Wins Contract Despite Late Bid; Chief Usher Changes Story.

WASHINGTON—A contract for $41,614 worth of new paneling for executive mansion corridors was let at the White House the other day under peculiar circumstances.

The company that got the contract didn't have its bid opened until one day after the 3 p. m. August 17 deadline when the other four bids were in. This is highly unusual. Bids on government contracts are supposed to be opened simultaneously in the presence of all concerned.

But in this case the successful bid, that of the V. J. Miller Construction Company, was rushed in at the last moment, remained unopened all night, and when opened the next day turned out to be the low bid. The next highest bid, that of the Davis, Wick, Rosengarten Company, was for $42,255.

What added to the unusual circumstances was a mysterious phone call by the chief White House usher, Howell G. Crim, one hour AFTER the first four bids were opened, to a Bert Matthews telling him to get his bid in right away. However, Crim called the wrong Matthews.

Bert Matthews is with the Tuckman-Barbee Construction Company which did not bid on the White House contract. And when he protested that he didn't know what it was all about, but perhaps Crim wanted another Matthews who was with the V. J. Miller Company, White House Usher Crim abruptly ended the conversation.

The contract negotiations occurred when President Eisenhower was in Denver. The White House usher is the top permanent functionary in the executive mansion, and Mr. Crim has served there some years with a good record. However, attempts by this column to get to the bottom of the contract award resulted in one of the most unusual run-arounds in run-around Washington.

White House Explains

White House Usher Crim, asked by this column for an explanation for the delayed bid, at first said he had nothing to do with the Miller contract, that he was on vacation and that the bids had been handled by Roger Steffan, special assistant to the President. He added that he had gone to the bid-opening only as a spectator.

"I went down out of personal interest because I had never seen it. I was only a spectator," Crim said.

But when asked why the V. J. Miller bid was not opened with the others, Crim seemed to have more than a spectator's knowledge.

"We wanted to get this work done while the President was away," he replied. "So we invited four contractors to bid, and we specified the time the bids were to be opened. Miller come in the last minute. He had not been invited to bid but asked for permission to submit a bid. We decided to take it under advisement."

"Why wasn't the Miller bid opened on the spot?" Crim was asked.

"We wanted time to decide whether to consider the bid at all," Crim explained.

Asked about the mysterious phone call to Bert Matthews an hour after the first four bids were opened, Crim acknowledged that he made the call and had cut the conversation short when he found Matthews wasn't the right man.

"I was simply calling to find out if he was the agent for the V. J. Miller Company," he explained. "We didn't know anything about the company and I was calling to check on the bid."

"But I thought you attended the bid opening only as a spectator and that Roger Steffan handled the whole thing," Crim was asked. "It now looks as if you were taking a very active part in the whole matter."

Crim then reversed his previous statement that he was on vacation, said he had come back to work for a day or two.

The Merry-Go-Round

Roger Steffan, when questioned, flatly denied that he had anything to do with the contract. He said it had been handled by F. T. Gartside of National Capital Parks at the Interior Department.

Gartside, upon questioning, promptly stated that the contract was a White House matter and he had been instructed to refer all inquiries to the White House.

"We just talked to the White House," Gartside was told, "and they referred us to you."

Gartside thought this over, then asked for time to check with the White House.

A second call to him was met with instructions from his secretary to talk to Larry Smith, Interior Department public relations officer. Mr. Smith was obliging but frankly unfamiliar with the technical details of the White House contract. He finally put Gartside back on the phone.

Gartside explained that the unusual delay in opening Miller's bid was due to the fact that Miller had not yet inspected the White House.

"But Miller had inspected the White House and the secret service knew it."

"I realize that," Gartside replied, "but my chief, Mr. Horn, didn't."

"Who finally made the decision to open the Miller bid?"

"We received instruction," Gartside replied.

Definitely In Peril

From Nehru's standpoint, India was in a precarious position, which became increasingly more difficult as Communist China emerged as an imperialistic military power, seizing, as one of its first acts, Tibet, thus directly menacing India. Furthermore, as Communist China's ambitions in Indo-China and Thailand become more apparent, India was definitely in peril.

Therefore, Nehru, with that twist in logic for which Orientals are so famous, joined up with the menacing power, while exerting political blackmail on the only European nation that had any interest in protecting India. The form of blackmail used is the constant threat of withdrawal from the Commonwealth.

With its troubles in Egypt, in Iran, in Malaya, Great Britain cannot afford to have any member of the Commonwealth secede at this time. Furthermore, the relationship between Great Britain and the Union of South Africa is such that were the Commonwealth to be weakened. South Africa might also pull out. Then there is little Ceylon, rich beyond our imagination in essential raw materials. It might follow India.

Therefore the British have been forced to take Nehru seriously and often to capitulate to him. Having tied up this arm of the problem, Nehru manipulated himself into the role of broker for Soviet Russia and Communist China in the United Nations. Adopting an attitude of neutrality in the Korean War, Nehru also became violently anti-Formosa, this often involving him in an anti-American attitude.

United States Humiliated

Nehru could well afford to be anti-American because he realized that our policy was to support Great Britain at any cost. All he needed to do to get the Americans to weaken their own position was to squeeze the British, who immediately put pressure on Dean Acheson's State Department, which capitulated. It was a smart game while it lasted. It produced the pro-Russian Korean truce, which is humiliating to the United States.

But it is precisely in that that Nehru made his mistake. The United States, despite its huge losses in men and wealth, does not take its foreign relations as seriously as it should. But the American people do take humiliation seriously. The Korean War is the first in which we have been defeated. As skillfully as the Washington psychologists try to cover up the defeat and its causes, so increasingly resentful do the American people become.

It is impossible for anyone, President Eisenhower or anyone else, to explain why when Generals MacArthur, Ridgway, Van Fleet, and Clark say that they could have won the Korean War, we lost it. It is impossible for anyone to explain why we signed a truce giving the Chinese Communists a victory, leaving them the means for the conquest of South Korea and for a major war on Japan.

Our people are not fools. They may not know all the little names on the map. They may not be able to speak half a dozen queer languages. They may not know all the refinements of psychological warfare. But they know when they have been had. And when they discover that, they get sore. They know that the trickster in this situation is India.

And if India had sat on the Political Conference, it could have developed that public opinion in this country would have supported a movement for us to get out of that Conference and to go it alone. Almost too late, the British realized that the antipathy in this country is not just another American twist of the British lion's tail. It is so strong and fundamental that it could have destroyed the whole structure of Anglo-American relations.

And maybe Nehru now understands that treachery does not pay.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Northern Democrats apparently have learned very little since November 1952 or they would not be asking the Southern Democrats to forget or surrender the fundamentals which have estranged them from the Democratic party.

As the meeting of the Democratic National Committee in Chicago approaches, there is much talk directed at the Southerners, telling them to "come in and bury the hatchet" or "to unite for victory" —just as if nothing had happened. Much of the talk emanating from Northern leaders resembles the tactics of certain negotiators on the international scene. They call for "peace offensives" but, when their proposals are analyzed, it is discovered they mean peace only on their own terms.

The friction between the two wings of the Democrati party is too deep-seated to be cured by exhortation. The first step toward harmony is to begin to understand that the Southern Democrats are conscientious in their adherence to certain principles and that, if the Northern Democrats want to make peace, they will have to exhibit a tolerance which they have not manifested in party councils for many years.

The Southern Democrats look askance, for instance, at the way the Northern faction has become the tool and instrument of "radicalism." This term is often rejected by the Northern Democrats, who say their creed is r ally "liberalism." To this the Southerners reply that any program which is based on compulsion and coercion instead of voluntarism is not true liberalism but something approximating totalitarianism.

Liberal Or Otherwise

The clash arises, of course, out of the effort of the Northern "liberals" to ram down the throats of the Southerners a compulsory FEPC—a piece of legislation that would empower a Federal government commission to tell an employer whom he shall hire as employes. Nor have the Southern Democrats ever swallowed the coercive features of collective bargaining which were originally introduced in the Wagner Labor Relations Act. The feeling against Trumanism and the New Deal and Fair Deal philosophy of government is so ingrained that it cannot be eradicated by a continuance of the bellicose attitude exhibited by Northern Democrats at the party's national convention in Chicago last year.

The argument over the so-called "loyalty" pledge need not be a barrier to party harmony. Loyalty to the ticket is taken for granted party politics, but the young "liberals" who made an issue of it at the last convention insulted the Southerners and unless that "loyalty" resolution is wiped out of the records at the Democratic National Committee's meeting in Chicago on September 14-15, the chances of healing the breach on other issues is lessened.

Right To Free Vote

Every individual feels that he has the right to vote as he pleases in a presidential election, even if he attends a party convention as a delegate. He would not be justified, of course, in using the party machinery locally in an election to oppose the choice of the national convention of his party, but he has a right to the expression of his own views at any time. To say to a member of the Democratic party —the party which prides itself on individual freedom and tolerance— that he must, even before knowing the platform or the identity of the candidate, pledge himself blindly as an individual to support the unknown is to violate the tradition of independence which Democrats have always cherished.

It is precisely the threat that a minority of delegates may bolt the party as individuals in a single election which makes it necessary for the majority to keep faith with party tradition in whatever it does. To interject a program of compulsion or to propose that freedom of contract be abolished in America is to espouse a fundamental philosophy alien to the Democratic Party—at least, so the Southerners feel.

When the Northern Democrats cease to toady to pressure groups which are hostile to the South and begin to perceive that reforms can be more quickly achieved by voluntary methods, the "Civil Rights" issue will no longer split the Democratic Party. If the Northerners really want peace, they might better start studying the basic issues that have caused the cleavage and come up with some proposals on that score rather than expect the Southern Democrats to come crawling back into the party in abject surrender. For the South today holds the balance of political power in America and its support cannot be won by assuming it is impotent or merely recalcitrant. The basic issues are still unsolved.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Dodge-Wilson-Eisenhower Letters

WASHINGTON

An important faction within the Eisenhower Administration is determined to sacrifice a serious American defense effort in favor of a balanced budget. For the time being, moreover, this faction appears to have the President's backing. These conclusions are very clearly suggested by a hitherto undisclosed and highly significant exchange of letters between the Budget Bureau, the Defense Department, and the White House.

Before Congress adjourned, Budget Director Joseph Dodge sent a form letter to Defense Secretary Charles Wilson. The meat of this letter was contained in the following paragraph:

"The fiscal year 1955 budget will have to show further substantial reductions from the fiscal year 1954 revised figures. These reductions will have to be at least equal to and may have to be greater than those already made in the fiscal year 1954 budget."

Wilson mulled over the Dodge directive for a couple of weeks, and then sent a reply. He pointedly reminded Dodge that "the Congress was informed by both the Secretary of Defense and the President that . . . the new Joint Chiefs of Staff would make an intensive and detailed study of all aspects of defense . . . Until the completion of the review of the military plan by the Joint Chiefs, it would appear undesirable to make an estimate as to the amounts required . . ."

With this polite but firm rejoinder, round one apparently went to Wilson. Round two started when Wilson received a second letter, this time from the President himself, shortly before the President left on his vacation. This letter closely followed the Budget Bureau line—indeed, it was almost certainly drafted by Dodge for the President's signature.

Like the Dodge letter, the President's letter told Wilson to "reduce current expenditures"—this being official language for stretching out defense spending. The letter urged Wilson to "correct" those Defense Department practices which had been criticized in Congress. Finally, the Eisenhower letter also called for reductions in the forthcoming Defense budget "beyond those indicated for fiscal 1954."

Wilson dutifully circulated this letter to top officials in the Defense Department. But Wilson's famous stubborness can be a virtue, and he repeated in his covering note that the Presidential letter meant "no change" in Defense planning, until after the new Joint Chiefs had completed their review.

To judge from his respose to both letters, Wilson is more aware than he once was of his grim responsibilities as Secretary of Defense. At any rate, Wilson clearly lost round two, since the President's letter uncompromisingly backed the line taken by Dodge in his original directive.

It is important to understand what Defense cutbacks "beyond those indicated for fiscal 1954" would mean. The reductions already made in the current defense budget come to well over $6,000,000,000, the great bulk of this money from the Air Force. A similar reduction from the current level would mean a Defense budget of around $28,000,000,000.

Defense "housekeeping" outlays alone—keeping the men in the armed forces paid and fed and clothed and transported—now runs to about $22,000,000,000 a year. This cannot be much reduced without greatly reducing force levels. A $28,000,000,000 Defense budget would thus hardly be sufficient to keep procurement of aircraft and other "hard goods" ticking over.

This is so even if unexpended balances were very heavily drawn on—which would knock subsequent budgets out of kilter. To take one example, a $28,000,000,000 Defense Budget would probably mean accepting an air strength level of about eighty-five groups, as against the 143 groups which the Joint Chiefs only last year laid down as the minimum requirement for American air strength. A Defense Budget of about $28,000,000,000, in short, simply will not permit any kind of real defense against the steadily growing Soviet air-atomic capability.

The Dodge and Eisenhower letters were, no doubt, more an expression of a fervent hope than a firm declaration of intentions. Yet they suggest the kind of pressures under which the new Joint Chiefs are operating, as they proceed with their "new look" at our defense levels.

There are, however, at least two factors which are operating against this pressure for a balanced budget at almost any cost. One factor is the Soviet hydrogen bomb, which had not been tested when the new chiefs were appointed, or when Dodge and the President wrote their letters to Wilson. Another factor is a new and careful study of our strategic situation, in the light of the Soviet air-atomic threat.

This new study, which will be considered in a forthcoming report in this space, is the last of a series, all of which point, not to less spending for our defenses, but more. These two factors are certain to weigh very heavily with the Joint Chiefs. They are also certain to weigh very heavily with President Eisenhower, on whom the awful responsibility of making the final decision rests.

rangements. Why did you need instructions?"

"The appropriations act," he replied, "entrusts these funds to the control of White House authorities."

"Then who in the White House instructed you to open the Miller bid?"

"I got my instructions from Mr. Crim. I don't know who gave him his instructions."

"But Crim said that he was present merely as a spectator. Now you say Crim gave you instructions."

Gartside seemed stumped at this, had no real reply.

"Crim," he was reminded, "states that Roger Steffan was in charge. But Steffan in turn stated that you were in charge. And now you state that Crim was in charge. That's what some people would call the Washington Merry-Go-Round."

NOTE—Under Public Law 269 it is legal for the White House to give contractors the run-around. This law states that "this money is to be expended as the President shall determine, notwithstanding the provisions of any other act." Thus the White House can take up the time and money of contractors by inviting bids, then turn around and award the contract to whomever it pleases.

Site Of New LaVale School Will Be Checked By Board

The site of the new elementary school for LaVale on Parkside Avenue will be visited next Wednesday by representatives of the County Board of Education, County Health Department and the architect on the project.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said he has arranged the inspection with a representative of the architect, Johannes and Murray of Silver Spring, and J. Byron Dowling, county sanitarian, and an engineer from the State Health Department.

They will check the three-acre plot for a location for a sewage disposal plant. This system will be designed to be large enough to handle a junior high school that may be built there in the future.

Webster commented that the new school in the west end of LaVale will be from ten to 12 rooms in size.

The building will be a one-floor structure with a second story added in the future for a junior high school that is needed for that area.

Originally, the Board of Education had asked the General Assembly and County Commissioners to provide enough funds for an elementary-junior high school in LaVale.

This was pared down to an elementary school in the current $3,500,000 bond issue schedule for school construction in the next two years.

Webster said the cafeteria and heating plant in the LaVale school will be double the size needed for the elementary school.

This is being done because enlargement of these two facilities at a future date when the junior high school would be needed would be most expensive.

The two facilities can be built at a nominal cost now.

State Swelters Through Eighth Consecutive Day

BALTIMORE, Sept. 2 (AP) — The mercury climbed to record highs in many parts of Maryland today as the sweltering heat wave continued through the eighth straight day.

Forecasters became a little more definite in their prediction relief will arrive sometime Friday, but they could see nothing but more sunny, hot, sticky weather in prospect until then.

Eighteen persons were treated for heat prostration at Baltimore hospitals today. There were 13 cases Tuesday.

So far there has been only one heat death in the state, that of Joseph Rosebrough, 74-year-old farmer found dead Tuesday in a field at his home near Cumberland.

Seven State Police barracks, at scattered points in the state, reported high readings today of 100 degrees or over.

Salisbury was the hottest reporting point with 105 degrees at mid-afternoon. The barracks at Waldorf reported 102, and that at Pikesville 101. Readings of 100 were recorded at Frederick, Towson, Waterloo and Conowingo.

In Baltimore, the Weather Bureau reported the temperature climbed to 98 degrees, topping by wo degrees the previous Sept. 2nd record for the city set in 1932.

State Police reported it was 98 in Cumberland, 97 at Randallstown, and 96 at Rockville and Benson. Easton, with a high of 95, was the coolest point reporting.

Leaders Say TV Educates Youth

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—Television broadcasters said today that they are educating your youngster, not driving him away from his books.

This statement came in a pamphlet called "Facts About TV," put out by the Television Information Committee of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters (NARTB).

Much of the discussion concentrated on youngsters and sought to shatter the widespread idea that books are going into the trash basket as television sets enter the home.

This pamphlet was put out by the commercial TV broadcasters. And the boosters of educational TV channels were inclined to agree with their money-making brothers.

"I think television did affect the reading habits of youngsters when it first hit the market," said Ralph Steetle, executive director of the Joint Council of Educational Television (CET), a group made up of seven major educational associations.

"But," Steetle added, "now that the novelty has worn off, the kids are going back to their books. They're getting more and more selective about what they watch on television. And they've even reached the stage where they can turn the set off without being told to."

Fencing is thought to have originated as a sport in Germany about 1330.

Chicago Record Set As Motorist Is Fined $5,349

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (AP)—The largest fine ever assessed in traffic court—$5,349—was meted out Wednesday to a driver convicted of 71 violations.

He is Jerry Leveron, 27, alias L. J. Borwen, who was accused of 74 charges, most of them speeding. Two were withdrawn and one was dismissed. Municipal Judge Joseph J. Butler fixed the penalty.

SRC Asks Bids On U.S. 15 Project

BALTIMORE, Sept. 2 (AP) — The State Roads Commission today called for bids on overhauling a 3¼-mile stretch of U. S. 15 at the north edge of Thurmont, Frederick County.

Part of the project calls for widening, modifying curves, and resurfacing not quite a mile of the road from the intersection of U. S. 15 and State Route 81 in Thurmont to Owens Creek.

The more than two miles from Owens Creek north will be completely rebuilt as one lane of an ultimate dual highway.

The bids will be opened here Sept. 22. The project is a preliminary to more ambitious plans for U. S. 15 under Maryland's new 12-year 568-million dollar highway program.

It ultimately is to become a dual highway all the way from Frederick to the Pennsylvania line with by-passes around Thurmont and Emmitsburg.

The Roads Commission also will open bids Sept. 15 on the overhauling of almost a mile of State Route 60 through Leitersburg, Washington County.

When a person commits a crime on the high seas, he is tried under the jurisdiction of the nation whose flag the ship flies.

13,173 Defy Heat To Attend Fair

TIMONIUM, Md., Sept. 2 (AP) — A record crowd of 13,173 braved the sizzling heat today for the opening of the 1953 Maryland State Fair.

Attendance, although short of expectations, was still 100 more than came for the first day last year. Officials remarked that "kinder" weather would have boosted the turnout by 2,000 to 3,000.

The only principal to miss the first day's performance was "Queenie", a white-tailed fawn scheduled to appear in the Farm and Garden building. The Maryland Board of Natural Resources said the weather was too hot to risk Queenie's survival and that she would be brought in when it cools.

But the temperatures, which climbed close to 100 degrees this afternoon, didn't slow down the fair's normal business. Boys and girls from 4-H clubs collected their purple, blue, red and white ribbons. The horses were running at the fairgrounds track. And thousands toured exhibits and sampled wares of the midway.

Heat Kills Fish

AURORA, Ill., Sept. 2 (AP)—Hot weather and hot water teamed up today to kill thousands of fish—including walleyes, carp and bass—in the shallow waters of Fox River as the stream's temperature reached 98 degrees.

Beardless Martinsburg Men Will Face Pillory

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 2 (AP)—A pillory was erected in the public square here today as a reminder to the male populace that anyone appearing without a beard during the city's 175th anniversary celebration faces punishment.

Any man who goes beardless must carry a shaving permit during the three-day celebration that began today.

State Swelters Through Eighth Consecutive Day

BALTIMORE, Sept. 2 (AP) — The mercury climbed to record highs in many parts of Maryland today as the sweltering heat wave continued through the eighth straight day.

Forecasters became a little more definite in their prediction relief will arrive sometime Friday, but they could see nothing but more sunny, hot, sticky weather in prospect until then.

Eighteen persons were treated for heat prostration at Baltimore hospitals today. There were 13 cases Tuesday.

So far there has been only one heat death in the state, that of Joseph Rosebrough, 74-year-old farmer found dead Tuesday in a field at his home near Cumberland.

Seven State Police barracks, at scattered points in the state, reported high readings today of 100 degrees or over.

Salisbury was the hottest reporting point with 105 degrees at mid-afternoon. The barracks at Waldorf reported 102, and that at Pikesville 101. Readings of 100 were recorded at Frederick, Towson, Waterloo and Conowingo.

In Baltimore, the Weather Bureau reported the temperature climbed to 98 degrees, topping by wo degrees the previous Sept. 2nd record for the city set in 1932.

State Police reported it was 98 in Cumberland, 97 at Randallstown, and 96 at Rockville and Benson. Easton, with a high of 95, was the coolest point reporting.

Leaders Say TV Educates Youth

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—Television broadcasters said today that they are educating your youngster, not driving him away from his books.

This statement came in a pamphlet called "Facts About TV," put out by the Television Information Committee of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters (NARTB).

Much of the discussion concentrated on youngsters and sought to shatter the widespread idea that books are going into the trash basket as television sets enter the home.

This pamphlet was put out by the commercial TV broadcasters. And the boosters of educational TV channels were inclined to agree with their money-making brothers.

"I think television did affect the reading habits of youngsters when it first hit the market," said Ralph Steetle, executive director of the Joint Council of Educational Television (CET), a group made up of seven major educational associations.

"But," Steetle added, "now that the novelty has worn off, the kids are going back to their books. They're getting more and more selective about what they watch on television. And they've even reached the stage where they can turn the set off without being told to."

Chicago Record Set As Motorist Is Fined $5,349

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (AP)—The largest fine ever assessed in traffic court—$5,349—was meted out Wednesday to a driver convicted of 71 violations.

He is Jerry Leveron, 27, alias L. J. Borwen, who was accused of 74 charges, most of them speeding. Two were withdrawn and one was dismissed. Municipal Judge Joseph J. Butler fixed the penalty.

SRC Asks Bids On U.S. 15 Project

BALTIMORE, Sept. 2 (AP) — The State Roads Commission today called for bids on overhauling a 3¼-mile stretch of U. S. 15 at the north edge of Thurmont, Frederick County.

Part of the project calls for widening, modifying curves, and resurfacing not quite a mile of the road from the intersection of U. S. 15 and State Route 81 in Thurmont to Owens Creek.

The more than two miles from Owens Creek north will be completely rebuilt as one lane of an ultimate dual highway.

The bids will be opened here Sept. 22. The project is a preliminary to more ambitious plans for U. S. 15 under Maryland's new 12-year 568-million dollar highway program.

It ultimately is to become a dual highway all the way from Frederick to the Pennsylvania line with by-passes around Thurmont and Emmitsburg.

The Roads Commission also will open bids Sept. 15 on the overhauling of almost a mile of State Route 60 through Leitersburg, Washington County.

13,173 Defy Heat To Attend Fair

TIMONIUM, Md., Sept. 2 (AP) — A record crowd of 13,173 braved the sizzling heat today for the opening of the 1953 Maryland State Fair.

Attendance, although short of expectations, was still 100 more than came for the first day last year. Officials remarked that "kinder" weather would have boosted the turnout by 2,000 to 3,000.

The only principal to miss the first day's performance was "Queenie", a white-tailed fawn scheduled to appear in the Farm and Garden building. The Maryland Board of Natural Resources said the weather was too hot to risk Queenie's survival and that she would be brought in when it cools.

But the temperatures, which climbed close to 100 degrees this afternoon, didn't slow down the fair's normal business. Boys and girls from 4-H clubs collected their purple, blue, red and white ribbons. The horses were running at the fairgrounds track. And thousands toured exhibits and sampled wares of the midway.

Heat Kills Fish

AURORA, Ill., Sept. 2 (AP)—Hot weather and hot water teamed up today to kill thousands of fish—including walleyes, carp and bass—in the shallow waters of Fox River as the stream's temperature reached 98 degrees.

Beardless Martinsburg Men Will Face Pillory

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 2 (AP)—A pillory was erected in the public square here today as a reminder to the male populace that anyone appearing without a beard during the city's 175th anniversary celebration faces punishment.

Any man who goes beardless must carry a shaving permit during the three-day celebration that began today.

Mrs. Bibby Retains Women's Golf Crown With Late Rally

Defeats Mrs. Hodges To Retire Trophy

Mrs. G. William Bibby, who Tuesday highlighted her long golfing career with a hole-in-one, yesterday staged a thrilling rally to edge Mrs. Royce W. Hodges, 1 up in 18 holes, to capture the women's fall tournament championship at the Cumberland Country Club.

Mrs. Bibby thus retired the Mort Peskin trophy which goes to the woman winning the championship flight in the fall tournament three times. She was defending champion, having taken the title last year also.

Mrs. Bibby shot a 46-36—82 in winning her third crown over Mrs. Hodges who carded a 39-42—81 Although outshot by one stroke Mrs. Bibby was one up at the end of 18 holes in match play.

Mrs. Hodges, starting strong, jumped off to a 5-up lead at the close of nine holes of play but was unable to retain her margin against the stellar play of Mrs. Bibby on the back nine. Mrs. Bibby won six of the final nine holes, winning the championship on the 18th hole.

In a special match played yesterday on the Country Club course Mrs. Richard Kendall registered a net 69 to win tickets to the showing of the Martin and Lewis movie, "The Caddy" at the Strand Theatre.

In a second flight women's fall tournament match Mrs. Morgan C. Harris was returned the victor over Mrs. J. A. Moberly 4 and 3. Mrs. Harris thus enters the finals of the second flight where she will meet Mrs. Irving Millenson.

In a men's fall tournament match J. A. Moberly defeated Ray Hollandsworth 4 and 3 in a third flight contest.

Frostburg won the opener Tuesday 2-1 in Cumberland and the final game of the series is set Friday at 6 p. m. at Penn Avenue field.

Imes paced his team also with two hits and little Jimmy Kline drew four walks in as many trips to the plate for the winners. Zumpano, Gardner and Skidmore had Frostburg's bingles, the latter a double. The score:

Seixas, Rosewall Score Easy Wins In National Play

Clark Only Upset Victim On Courts

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 2 (AP) — Little Ken Rosewall of Australia and tall Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, the Australian and Wimbledon champions, respectively, each dropped a set today as they led a field of 16 winners through a torrid third round of the National Tennis Meet at the Westside Club.

With the temperature rising into the high 90's in the shade, and no shade where he was, the 30-year-old Seixas applied the pressure only as necessary to eliminate a fellow countryman, Grant Golden of Wilmette, Ill., 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3. The knee which Seixas hurt over two weeks ago at Newport appeared to have mended completely.

Rosewall, in some distress with a summer cold, found himself all-square after two sets against Joaquin Reyes, a talented Mexican player. But then he lifted his fine all-around game another notch to close it out in a hurry 6-4, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

The day's only casualty among the seeded players came late in the day, with darkness settling fast over the stadium court and thunder rumbling in the distance. With almost the last stroke that it would have been possible for him to hit in the gloom, Fred Kovaleski, a government employee from Washington, knocked Straight Clark of Pasadena out of the tournament by scores of 6-3, 9-11, 7-5, 7-5.

Clark was seeded No. 6 on the home list.

Tony Trabert, the No. 2 American hope, did a fast job on Seth Peterson Jr., of San Francisco, 6-3, 6-2, 6-0.

Gardnar Mulloy, last year's finalist and the No. 3 home seed, kept pace with the youngsters as he baselined J. E. Barrett of England into defeat 6-4, 6-3, 6-1. Art Larsen, the 1950 champion, was given a stiff workout before he downed Gil Shea of Los Angeles 9-7, 11-9, 6-4.

Eagles Beat Amvets, 4-1

Elliott's Hitting Features Triumph

Allan Sheetz bested Big Jim Gaffney for the second time this season as the Eagles defeated the Amvets yesterday 4-1 at Stitcher field to even their final playoff series in the Rocking Chair League at 1-1.

Each hurler permitted seven safeties but single tallies in the first two innings and another pair in the fifth gave Sheetz the edge. Gaffney and the Amvets won the opener Tuesday, 4-3, in eight innings.

Pete Elliott, hard-hitting third sacker for the Eagles, was the big gun to yesterday's victory as he singled sharply off George Geatz' leg to score the first Eagle run and then doubled home two more tallies in the fifth behind singles by Jim Kienhofer and Chug Aman.

Jim Rice's two-bagger and Jack Kauffman's bingle accounted for the other Eagles run in the second. Kauffman had two singles for the winners.

The Amvets dented the plate against Sheetz in the second when Harry Minnicks walked and Ike Cessna pounded a long double to left field.

Joe Geatz of the Amvets pulled the fielding play of the day when he speared a line smash at second off the bat of Jim Rice. The two teams meet again today at Stitcher field in the third game of their series. The score:

AMVETS	010 000 0—1	7 2
EAGLES	110 020 x—4	7 2

Gaffney and Espisito. Sheetz and Riehl.

Hercules Tops Cunningham's, Goes To Finals

Kegs Score 14-5 Win Over Grocers

Hercules Powder Kegs blasted Russ Miller for 11 hits and an easy 14-5 victory to eliminate Cunningham's Grocers from the semi-final playoffs in the County Softball League. The win was the second straight for the Kegs who won 11-3 Monday.

Hercules took a 7-5 lead in the first two innings then wrapped up the game with seven more tallies in the fourth, fifth and sixth frames.

Ritchie Middleton with three singles and George Schoenadel and Ken Carder each with a homerun paced the winners' attack.

Carder, who went all the way for Hercules on the mound, settled down after giving up five runs in the first two innings to blank Cunningham's the rest of the way. R. Frye, Wharton and Collins each had two hits for the losers.

Hercules will now meet the winner of the Potomac Valley Cubs-Central Lunch playoffs in the finals. The score:

HERCULES	250 124 0—14	11 2
CUNNINGHAM'S	140 000 0— 5	9 5

Parsons Opens 9-Game Grid Slate At Shinnston Sept 4

Panthers To Meet Fort Hill, LaSalle

PARSONS, W. Va.—Parsons has a reserve problem to lick before it can hope to better last year's 3-4-1 record, registered in Coach Sullivan's first season at the helm of the Panthers.

Eight regulars were graduated, leaving a small squad, with few experienced returnees, but the Tri-Valley Conference entry looks forward to improving its lot this year.

The group of returning monogram-winners were headed by running star Delton Mullenax, fullback, to greet Sullivan on the first day of practice. Included among the experienced hands is 190-pound sophomore Harry Sommerville, Jerry Newman, Willis Fansler, Terry Fairbanks, Joe Bundy and Dick Felton.

Backfield help will be in the form of quarterback Bill Rosenau and halfback Jim Bowley.

Sophomores are expected to provide the line reserve power. Guard candidates, Lawrence Stevens, Frank Mullenax and Bill Dilly are small but aggresive and should help the club. Center Lonnie Phillips and halfback Walter Jones are other sophomores counted on to alleviate the manpower shortage.

Sullivan will not be able to use the platoon system. He lost an outstanding prospect in halfback Robert Knecht before the season started when Knecht broke an elbow.

Sullivan sums up prospects with, "We can improve last year's record if key men aren't lost by injury. We graduated eight regulars and will be weak in reserves. The returning lettermen are the only experienced boys we have. This year's team should show more spirit and fight, as well as teamplay. We can't afford any injuries, however."

Parsons takes on an ambitious schedule adding Shinnston, Fort Hill, LaSalle and Pruntytown and dropping Victory. The schedule:

Sept. 4—At Shinnston
Sept. 18—At Fort Hill (night)
Sept. 25—Kingwood
Oct. 3—Belington at Elkins (night)
Oct. 9—LaSalle
Oct. 16—At Thomas
Oct. 23—At Romney Deaf And Blind
Oct. 30—Pruntytown
Nov. 11—At Elkins

Hahn Is Offered Shepherd College Coaching Post

William P. (Bill) Hahn, Fort Hill High School football and track coach, who has been at the helm of Sentinel teams since 1946, has been offered the post of athletic director, football and basketball coach at Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W. Va.

Hahn, who has guided Fort Hill football teams to six outright city championships in the past seven years and has been instrumental in bringing track into prominence in this area, said last night he had been interviewed for the job at Shepherd Tuesday by Dr. Oliver F. Ekenberry, president of the West Virginia institution.

The Fort Hill mentor, who already has signed his contract with Allegany County Board of Education for the coming year, indicated last night he would give Ekenberry his answer today.

Mrs. Bibby Retains Women's Golf Crown With Late Rally

Defeats Mrs. Hodges To Retire Trophy

Mrs. G. William Bibby, who Tuesday highlighted her long golfing career with a hole-in-one, yesterday staged a thrilling rally to edge Mrs. Royce W. Hodges, 1 up in 18 holes, to capture the women's fall tournament championship at the Cumberland Country Club.

Mrs. Bibby thus retired the Mort Peskin trophy which goes to the woman winning the championship flight in the fall tournament three times. She was defending champion, having taken the title last year also.

Mrs. Bibby shot a 46-36—82 in winning her third crown over Mrs. Hodges who carded a 39-42—81 Although outshot by one stroke Mrs. Bibby was one up at the end of 18 holes in match play.

Mrs. Hodges, starting strong, jumped off to a 5-up lead at the close of nine holes of play but was unable to retain her margin against the stellar play of Mrs. Bibby on the back nine. Mrs. Bibby won six of the final nine holes, winning the championship on the 18th hole.

In a special match played yesterday on the Country Club course Mrs. Richard Kendall registered a net 69 to win tickets to the showing of the Martin and Lewis movie, "The Caddy" at the Strand Theatre.

In a second flight women's fall tournament match Mrs. Morgan C. Harris was returned the victor over Mrs. J. A. Moberly 4 and 3. Mrs. Harris thus enters the finals of the second flight where she will meet Mrs. Irving Millenson.

In a men's fall tournament match J. A. Moberly defeated Ray Hollandsworth 4 and 3 in a third flight contest.

Cumberland Evens Little Loop Series With 4-0 Victory

Coach Tom Seifert's Dan All-Stars of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Little League defeated the Frostburg Little League All-Stars last night in the Mountain City by a 4-0 score behind the three-hit pitching of Chazz Imes to even their series at 1-1.

Frostburg won the opener Tuesday 2-1 in Cumberland and the final game of the series is set Friday at 6 p. m. at Penn Avenue field.

Imes paced his team also with two hits and little Jimmy Kline drew four walks in as many trips to the plate for the winners. Zumpano, Gardner and Skidmore had Frostburg's bingles, the latter a double. The score:

CUMBERLAND	001 111—4	3	0
FROSTBURG	000 000—0	3	1

Imes and Peters. Skidmore, Lashbaugh (5), Biziano (6) and McGowan.

Clark Only Upset Victim On Courts

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 2 (AP) — Little Ken Rosewall of Australia and tall Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, the Australian and Wimbledon champions, respectively, each dropped a set today as they led a field of 16 winners through a torrid third round of the National Tennis Meet at the Westside Club.

With the temperature rising into the high 90's in the shade, and no shade where he was, the 30-year-old Seixas applied the pressure only as necessary to eliminate a fellow countryman, Grant Golden of Wilmette, Ill., 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3. The knee which Seixas hurt over two weeks ago at Newport appeared to have mended completely.

Rosewall, in some distress with a summer cold, found himself all-square after two sets against Joaquin Reyes, a talented Mexican player. But then he lifted his fine all-around game another notch to close it out in a hurry 6-4, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

The day's only casualty among the seeded players came late in the day, with darkness settling fast over the stadium court and thunder rumbling in the distance. With almost the last stroke that it would have been possible for him to hit in the gloom, Fred Kovaleski, a government employee from Washington, knocked Straight Clark of Pasadena out of the tournament by scores of 6-3, 9-11, 7-5, 7-5.

Clark was seeded No. 6 on the home list.

Tony Trabert, the No. 2 American hope, did a fast job on Seth Peterson Jr., of San Francisco, 6-3, 6-2, 6-0.

Gardnar Mulloy, last year's finalist and the No. 3 home seed, kept pace with the youngsters as he baselined J. E. Barrett of England into defeat 6-4, 6-3, 6-1. Art Larsen, the 1950 champion, was given a stiff workout before he downed Gil Shea of Los Angeles 9-7, 11-9, 6-4.

Eagles Beat Amvets, 4-1

Elliott's Hitting Features Triumph

Allan Sheetz bested Big Jim Gaffney for the second time this season as the Eagles defeated the Amvets yesterday 4-1 at Stitcher field to even their final playoff series in the Rocking Chair League at 1-1.

Each hurler permitted seven safeties but single tallies in the first two innings and another pair in the fifth gave Sheetz the edge. Gaffney and the Amvets won the opener Tuesday, 4-3, in eight innings.

Pete Elliott, hard-hitting third sacker for the Eagles, was the big gun to yesterday's victory as he singled sharply off George Geatz' leg to score the first Eagle run and then doubled home two more tallies in the fifth behind singles by Jim Kienhofer and Chug Aman.

Jim Rice's two-bagger and Jack Kauffman's bingle accounted for the other Eagles run in the second. Kauffman had two singles for the winners.

The Amvets dented the plate against Sheetz in the second when Harry Minnicks walked and Ike Cessna pounded a long double to left field.

Joe Geatz of the Amvets pulled the fielding play of the day when he speared a line smash at second off the bat of Jim Rice. The two teams meet again today at Stitcher field in the third game of their series. The score:

AMVETS	010 000 0—1	7	2

Gaffney and Espisito. Sheetz and Riehl.

Hercules Tops Cunningham's, Goes To Finals

Kegs Score 14-5 Win Over Grocers

Hercules Powder Kegs blasted Russ Miller for 11 hits and an easy 14-5 victory to eliminate Cunningham's Grocers from the semi-final playoffs in the County Softball League. The win was the second straight for the Kegs who won 11-3 Monday.

Hercules took a 7-5 lead in the first two innings then wrapped up the game with seven more tallies in the fourth, fifth and sixth frames.

Ritchie Middleton with three singles and George Schoenadel and Ken Carder each with a homerun paced the winners' attack.

Carder, who went all the way for Hercules on the mound, settled down after giving up five runs in the first two innings to blank Cunningham's the rest of the way. R. Frye, Wharton and Collins each had two hits for the losers.

Hercules will now meet the winner of the Potomac Valley Cubs-Central Lunch playoffs in the finals. The score:

HERCULES	250 124 0—14	11	2

Carder and Schoenadel. Miller and D. Frye.

Parsons Opens 9-Game Grid Slate At Shinnston Sept 4

Panthers To Meet Fort Hill, LaSalle

PARSONS, W. Va.—Parsons has a reserve problem to lick before it can hope to better last year's 3-4-1 record, registered in Coach Sullivan's first season at the helm of the Panthers.

Eight regulars were graduated, leaving a small squad, with few experienced returnees, but the Tri-Valley Conference entry looks forward to improving its lot this year.

The group of returning monogram-winners were headed by running star Delton Mullenax, fullback, to greet Sullivan on the first day of practice. Included among the experienced hands is 190-pound sophomore Harry Sommerville, Jerry Newman, Willis Fansler, Terry Fairbanks, Joe Bundy and Dick Felton.

Backfield help will be in the form of quarterback Bill Rosenau and halfback Jim Bowley.

Sophomores are expected to provide the line reserve power. Guard candidates, Lawrence Stevens, Frank Mullenax and Bill Dilly are small but aggresive and should help the club. Center Lonnie Phillips and halfback Walter Jones are other sophomores counted on to alleviate the manpower shortage.

Sullivan will not be able to use the platoon system. He lost an outstanding prospect in halfback Robert Knecht before the season started when Knecht broke an elbow.

Sullivan sums up prospects with, "We can improve last year's record if key men aren't lost by injury. We graduated eight regulars and will be weak in reserves. The returning lettermen are the only experienced boys we have. This year's team should show more spirit and fight, as well as teamplay. We can't afford any injuries, however."

Parsons takes on an ambitious schedule adding Shinnston, Fort Hill, LaSalle and Pruntytown and dropping Victory. The schedule:

Sept. 4—At Shinnston
Sept. 18—At Fort Hill (night)
Sept. 25—Kingwood
Oct. 3—Belington at Elkins (night)
Oct. 9—LaSalle
Oct. 16—At Thomas
Oct. 23—At Romney Deaf And Blind
Oct. 30—Pruntytown
Nov. 11—At Elkins

William P. (Bill) Hahn, Fort Hill High School football and track coach, who has been at the helm of Sentinel teams since 1946, has been offered the post of athletic director, football and basketball coach at Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W. Va.

Hahn, who has guided Fort Hill football teams to six outright city championships in the past seven years and has been instrumental in bringing track into prominence in this area, said last night he had been interviewed for the job at Shepherd Tuesday by Dr. Oliver F. Ekenberry, president of the West Virginia institution.

The Fort Hill mentor, who already has signed his contract with Allegany County Board of Education for the coming year, indicated last night he would give Ekenberry his answer today.

Chicago Rocks Senators, 7-3, Behind Keegan

Ryan Steals Home In Seventh Inning

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, battling to hold onto second place in the American League race, rocked four Washington pitchers with a 16-hit barrage today to defeat the Nats, 7 to 3.

Bob Keegan pitched the first seven innings for the Sox before he wilted in the heat. Keegan would have had a shutout to that point had he been accorded perfect support.

Harry Dorish pitched the last two innings and gave up one run.

Frank Shea, Al Sima, Gerry Lane and Walt Masterson shared the Washington mound duties and all were touched for a run or more. Shea was the starter and loser. Nellie Fox led the Chicago attack with three singles and the Sox enlivened the game with a double steal in the seventh, Connie Ryan scoring and Ed Stewart taking second.

Advance To Finals With 3-1 Victory

The Old Germans defeated Parker's 3-1 yesterday at Penn Avenue field to capture the semi-final series in the Men's Rec League.

Although able to garner only three hits off Harper and Carter Banks the Germans scored a single run in the fourth and broke the tie with two more in the sixth on Bill Fair's double and Tom Mullaney's single. The score:

Giants Defeat Redlegs, 4-3

Rookie Gomez Records His 13th Triumph

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—The New York Giants jumped on Bud Podbielan for three runs in the first inning and held on grimly to eke out a 4-3 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds today.

Ruben Gomez, 25-year-old rookie righthander from Puerto Rico, went the distance for the Giants despite the intense near 100-degree heat to record his 13th triumph against seven defeats. The Reds threw a scare into him in the ninth when Willard Marshall hit his 16th home run following a leadoff single by Ted Kluszewski to narrow the Giants' lead to 4-3. Gomez, however, retired the next three batters to sew up his victory.

Pettit To Rejoin Pittsburgh Today

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 2 (AP)—Paul Pettit, 22, Long Beach, Calif. "bonus baby" whom the Pittsburgh Pirates paid $100,000 for signing a contract four years ago, will rejoin the Bucs today or tomorrow.

Pettit had a good year with Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League in 1952 but didn't make out so well with the Pirates early this season. He was sent to Charleston N. C. of the Class A Sally League and has made a good showing with them, winning two and losing none.

Celebrities Golf Tourney Opens Today

Snead, Worsham Named Favorites

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—The National Celebrities golf tournament opens at the Woodmont Country Club tomorrow but the golfers seemed less concerned with their shots today than with the weather.

Broiling heat reigned, and the Weather Bureau said that kind of weather would stay around at least until the weekend.

It'll be hot, tough going for the big name golfers and even rougher for the politicians and entertainers who make up the field in the $15,000 tournament sponsored by the Washington Post.

Nearly all the ranking pros will be on hand, with the exception of two of their most prominent members, Ben Hogan and Lloyd Mangrum.

The favorite's mantle thus fell on Sam Snead and Lew Worsham, both of whom got a workout today over the tough 7,019-yard course in the Maryland suburbs of the capital.

The pros will play 72 holes, 18 each on Thursday, Friday Saturday and Sunday. The celebrities will go for only 36—18-hole rounds on Saturday and Sunday.

Vice President Nixon, a 90-shooter, will go off in the celebrities division along with comedian Bob Hope. Military figures, labor leaders, singers, comics, politicians and other bigwigs will take part in the celebrities play.

Cumberland Boys On Shepherd Team

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 2 (AP)—Coach Bill Moore scheduled two sessions daily for the three weeks before his Shepherd College football team opens its season against Washington and Lee.

Forty-seven candidates reported yesterday and about a dozen more are expected before school opens next week.

Moore and Assistant Coach Richard Mackay are running the workouts.

New candidates include James Martin and Robert Schade, from Fort Hill High School, Cumberland, Md.

Westlake Hits Two Homers, Tribe Wins

CLEVELAND, Sept. 2 (AP)—Veteran Wally Westlake scored three runs with two home runs tonight to give the Cleveland Indians a 6-3 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. The A's knocked Bob Lemon out of the box in the first inning with a three-run attack.

Art Houtteman, who replaced him, pitched shut out ball the rest of the way, allowing only four scattered singles.

Some interesting facts...

for the man who thinks "all good gasolines are about the same!"

This is such a common idea in people's minds, that you may be interested to know that it never was true . . . and isn't now!

Take a minute now to read why this is so . . . and you may be on your way to getting more for your gasoline money for years to come.

Here's the story . . . short and sweet!

First, it is true that all reputable gasolines today are good products and good value for your money.

Second, it is true that "premium" gasolines, at slightly higher cost, do give added performance values in most cars.

But . . . it is not true that all "premium" gasolines give the same amount of extra value for the higher price. Differences, in fact, are surprisingly great in many cases.

And . . . it is also true that Esso Extra gasoline meets the highest standard of all-round, year-round performance quality that exists!

Proof? It starts by taking these eight performance qualities which automotive engineers agree are basic in importance to a good gasoline.

1. Sheer Power; 2. High Anti-Knock; 3. Long Mileage; 4. Clean Engine Operation; 5. Quick Starting; 6. Fast Warm-Up; 7. Hot Weather Anti-Vapor-Lock; 8. Cool Weather Anti-Stalling.

Using this "yardstick" Esso Extra is tested scientifically for all these qualities against the best competing brands. And time after time in these tests Esso Extra meets the highest standard of overall year-round performance quality.

So . . . when you pay a little extra for a premium gasoline why not see your Esso Dealer? . . . why not get the most popular and largest-selling premium gasoline in the area served by Esso Dealers? . . . why not get all the extra benefits that await you all year 'round at the Esso Extra pump? That's what "Happy Motoring" really means! See your Esso Dealer today and regularly!

Esso Extra meets today's highest standard of year-round gasoline performance!

Ryan Steals Home In Seventh Inning

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, battling to hold onto second place in the American League race, rocked four Washington pitchers with a 16-hit barrage today to defeat the Nats, 7 to 3.

Bob Keegan pitched the first seven innings for the Sox before he wilted in the heat. Keegan would have had a shutout to that point had he been accorded perfect support.

Harry Dorish pitched the last two innings and gave up one run.

Frank Shea, Al Sima, Gerry Lane and Walt Masterson shared the Washington mound duties and all were touched for a run or more. Shea was the starter and loser. Nellie Fox led the Chicago attack with three singles and the Sox enlivened the game with a double steal in the seventh, Connie Ryan scoring and Ed Stewart taking second.

Giants Defeat Redlegs, 4-3

Rookie Gomez Records His 13th Triumph

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—The New York Giants jumped on Bud Podbielan for three runs in the first inning and held on grimly to eke out a 4-3 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds today.

Ruben Gomez, 25-year-old rookie righthander from Puerto Rico, went the distance for the Giants despite the intense near 100-degree heat to record his 13th triumph against seven defeats. The Reds threw a scare into him in the ninth when Willard Marshall hit his 16th home run following a leadoff single by Ted Kluszewski to narrow the Giants' lead to 4-3. Gomez, however, retired the next three batters to sew up his victory.

Pettit To Rejoin Pittsburgh Today

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 2 (AP)—Paul Pettit, 22, Long Beach, Calif. "bonus baby" whom the Pittsburgh Pirates paid $100,000 for signing a contract four years ago, will rejoin the Bucs today or tomorrow.

Pettit had a good year with Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League in 1952 but didn't make out so well with the Pirates early this season. He was sent to Charleston N. C. of the Class A Sally League and has made a good showing with them, winning two and losing none.

Celebrities Golf Tourney Opens Today

Snead, Worsham Named Favorites

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)—The National Celebrities golf tournament opens at the Woodmont Country Club tomorrow but the golfers seemed less concerned with their shots today than with the weather.

Broiling heat reigned, and the Weather Bureau said that kind of weather would stay around at least until the weekend.

It'll be hot, tough going for the big name golfers and even rougher for the politicians and entertainers who make up the field in the $15,000 tournament sponsored by the Washington Post.

Nearly all the ranking pros will be on hand, with the exception of two of their most prominent members, Ben Hogan and Lloyd Mangrum.

The favorite's mantle thus fell on Sam Snead and Lew Worsham, both of whom got a workout today over the tough 7,019-yard course in the Maryland suburbs of the capital.

The pros will play 72 holes, 18 each on Thursday, Friday Saturday and Sunday. The celebrities will go for only 36—18-hole rounds on Saturday and Sunday.

Vice President Nixon, a 90-shooter, will go off in the celebrities division along with comedian Bob Hope. Military figures, labor leaders, singers, comics, politicians and other bigwigs will take part in the celebrities play.

Cumberland Boys On Shepherd Team

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 2 (AP)—Coach Bill Moore scheduled two sessions daily for the three weeks before his Shepherd College football team opens its season against Washington and Lee.

Forty-seven candidates reported yesterday and about a dozen more are expected before school opens next week.

Moore and Assistant Coach Richard Mackay are running the workouts.

New candidates include James Martin and Robert Schade, from Fort Hill High School, Cumberland, Md.

Westlake Hits Two Homers, Tribe Wins

CLEVELAND, Sept. 2 (AP)—Veteran Wally Westlake scored three runs with two home runs tonight to give the Cleveland Indians a 6-3 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. The A's knocked Bob Lemon out of the box in the first inning with a three-run attack.

Art Houtteman, who replaced him, pitched shut out ball the rest of the way, allowing only four scattered singles.

Sgt. Gerald Cummings Is Released By Reds

Has Been War Prisoner Since November 1950

M/Sgt. Gerald K. Cummings, son of Mrs. Ethel Emmart, 335 Central Avenue, was released by the Red's in yesterday's prisoner of war exchange.

Sgt. Cummings has been in the Army since he left Allegany High School in 1939 and enlisted. He was at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese pulled their surprise attack, fought through the South Pacific campaigns with the First Cavalry Division and remained in the service after World War II.

Sgt. Cummings

When American troops moved into Korea as part of the United Nation's forces Sgt. Cummings was one of the first soldiers to land there. He fought with the division in some of the most bitter campaigning on the peninsula and was finally captured November 2, 1950.

His sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Crabtree, who lives with her mother at their Central Avenue home, said last night when told that her brother had been liberated, "we have been hoping and praying and waiting. These past few weeks have been terrible. Mother and I are both almost nervous wrecks."

She said the last time Gerald had been heard from was in April. The letter was post marked in February, and at that time he indicated he was all right. "Gerald wrote several times," his sister said, "and he always assured us he was all right. But we worried anyway."

A career soldier who has been in the Army over 14 years and a prisoner of war 34 months, Gerald is 33 years old. He observed his 33rd birthday on July 1 in the Red prison.

The family has made no plans for his return, except to say "thanks so much for notifying us. We are relieved and happy and want to see him so very much."

Gerald's step-father, Grover C. Emmart, will not be here to greet his step-son. He died in March of this year, and Gerald probably does not know anything about it.

Corporation Tax Bills Are Mailed

Tax statements totaling over $80,000 were mailed to Cumberland corporations yesterday, according to Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan.

He said other corporation tax bills will be mailed as assessments are certified by the State Tax Commissioner.

Commissioner Keegan said receipts from these bills, along with $50,000 borrowed recently, will tide the city over until other taxes begin to roll in late this month.

He said the corporations generally pay within 10 to 15 days after bills are received.

Tax bills on real and personal property are now being prepared and will be mailed about September 24.

fall, the average natural runoff of the Potomac River here, except as modified by the release of Savage River Dam, is expected to be 150 cubic feet per second, or 42 per cent of the normal for September.

Under adverse conditions, Beall added, of little or no rainfall, the natural flow would be expected to drop to about 70 cubic feet per second, or 19 per cent of normal.

Low flows are subject to augmentation by releases from Savage River Dam, Beall pointed out, and these natural minimums are not expected to be experienced. With Savage River Dam releases considered, and with little or no rainfall, the mean flow of the river would probably only drop to about 120 cubic feet per second, 33 per cent of normal.

BLUE SUNOCO WINS AGAIN

In Actual Road Tests Conducted by U. S. Testing Co.

HOBOKEN, N. J.
TELEPHONE: HOBOKEN 3-8100
ESTABLISHED 1880
TEST NUMBER E-7726
REPORT OF TEST
August 19, 1953

Test made for: Sun Oil Company, 1608 Walnut Street, Philadelphia 3, Pa. Attention: Dr. J. Bennett Hill, Director, Research and Development Dept.

Material tested: Blue Sunoco and Fifteen premium-priced gasolines.

PURPOSE: To compare the performance characteristics of Blue Sunoco and Fifteen (15) Premium-Priced gasolines sold in the Sunoco marketing area.

PROCEDURE: All gasolines were purchased at service stations by our personnel. Retail prices of these competitive gasolines ranged up to three cents (3¢) a gallon more than the price of Blue Sunoco, with an average difference of two and six-tenths cents (2.6¢) a gallon more than Blue Sunoco. All gasolines were identified only by code so that brand names were never known to our drivers.

Twenty-five (25) cars, representing every current American make, and ranging from 1948 to brand new, were used in the test, which was conducted on turnpikes or main highways in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, Michigan, and Ohio. Cars were driven at normal touring speeds.

RESULTS: Practically-speaking, the results of this test show no difference between Blue Sunoco and any of the fifteen (15) premium-priced gasolines tested in either miles per gallon, acceleration, or overall performance.

Blue Sunoco Matches 15 Premium-Priced Gasolines in Miles Per Gallon . . . Gives you Up to 12.4% more miles per dollar

High-Test Blue Sunoco was tested against 15 premium-priced gasolines with all their latest "improvements". Yet High-Test Blue Sunoco, selling at regular gas price, matched the mileage, acceleration and over-all performance of these gasolines, which cost up to 3¢ more per gallon!

Final results of the five-state, 25-car road test for gasoline mileage have now been tabulated. These results, certified by U.S. Testing Co., will be of vital interest to every motorist. Of the 16 gasolines tested, High-Test Blue Sunoco, the only regular-priced brand, matched the mileage, acceleration and over-all performance of its 15 premium-priced competitors.

How It's Possible

For over 25 years, the Sun Oil Company has produced one—and only one—highest quality gasoline. You will find no "second grade" gas pump in Sunoco stations.

This single-grade gasoline policy results in savings on tank ships, trucks, storage tanks, and pumps. These savings have been used to build special advanced manufacturing equipment. Today—because of this policy—Sun Oil Company has an unusually high proportion of modern catalytic cracking equipment. Sun's exclusive processes offer motorists a superior, premium performing gasoline — High-Test Blue Sunoco.

See Your Sunoco Dealer

Ask your Sunoco dealer for further details of the Sunoco road tests. Ask him, for example, the actual brand names of the premium-priced gasolines tested against Blue Sunoco. And of course, be sure to get your gas tank filled today with High-Test Blue Sunoco.

Tax statements totaling over $80,000 were mailed to Cumberland corporations yesterday, according to Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Dress and dramatize your type if you wish to make a great impact on others!

Pointing-up your type and dramatizing it is sure to add both distinction and interest to your personality. The famous beauties analyze their lines and physical characteristics and then choose only the costumes and accessories that accent their particular types.

For instance, you may have a petite figure and small features. If your nature is extremely feminine, frivolous, gay and demure, you make a perfect coquette. To point-up this asset, all it takes is a curled coiffure, the most feminine of current fashions and dressy clothes. Bows and frills are definitely for you. But stay away from active sports clothes and don't confuse yourself with the "suit type" of girl.

The Sophisticate

With a trim figure, electric personality and striking rather than regular features, play the sophisticate to a fare-thee-well. Let your coiffure be as sleek as you can arrange. Your clothes can be as severe and tailored as the fashion allows in order to dramatize your witty, intelligent and amusing self to the highest degree. Black and white are two of your best colors. All of your clothes should be high fashion, sensational, dramatic and striking.

If you have chisled features, dreamy eyes and a sensitive nature that loves beauty and art, you are the romantic type that needs the setting of beautifully-textured and subtly-colored clothes. Let everything you choose have a richness. But let everything also be restrained and exquisitely simple. Your hair should be softly styled and never studied in effect.

The Gamin

The gamin is characterized by a boyish figure, impudent features and rebellious hair. Active sports clothes, "crazy" pants for everything from breakfast through late-day moments are yours to choose. Anything gay and unusual, anything with spirit in line, color and fabric expresses your carefree nature. And for your glamorous clothes, be sure there is always a touch of the piquant.

But make no mistake in analyzing yourself and determining your type! This approach to personality presentation is not a matter of posing or acting. It is purely a distilling of your nature to point-up its essence so that you can achieve the greatest impact!

"FIGURED FOR YOU"

Specially prepared by figure and fashion experts EXCLUSIVELY for readers of this column. FIGURED FOR YOU, gives detailed instructions and illustrates how to select foundation garments that provide comeliness, control and healthful comfort for your individual type of figure. Dr. MacLeod will conduct the morning and evening services at the Keyser Presbyterian Church on Sunday and will also serve the McCoole Community Church.

A native of North Carolina, he succeeds Rev. John C. B. McLaughlin, as pastor of the local church. Rev. McLaughlin was pastor here for eight years. In the past spring he asked the local church board and the District Presbytery to grant him a release so that he could accept another ministry in Virginia. After the release was received, Rev. McLaughlin went to his new charge and the local church pastorate was handled during the intervening months by a student minister, Arthur Lindsay.

Dr. MacLeod was ordained to the ministry following his graduation from Union Seminary at Richmond, Va. in 1945, and has served churches in North Carolina and at the time of his call here was serving two rural churches near Richmond while teaching in the seminary there. In addition to holding a bachelor degree from Davidson College, he has earned degrees of Bachelor, Master and Doctor of Theology at Union Seminary.

At the Sunday morning worship service at Keyser Presbyterian Church, Dr. MacLeod has selected as his subject for his sermon, "A Minister, Yes—But Why?", and at the evening service his subject will be "The Face of God."

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Dress and dramatize your type if you wish to make a great impact on others!

Pointing-up your type and dramatizing it is sure to add both distinction and interest to your personality. The famous beauties analyze their lines and physical characteristics and then choose only the costumes and accessories that accent their particular types.

For instance, you may have a petite figure and small features. If your nature is extremely feminine, frivolous, gay and demure, you make a perfect ooquette. To point-up this asset, all it takes is a curled coiffure, the most feminine of current fashions and dressy clothes. Bows and frills are definitely for you. But stay away from active sports clothes and don't confuse yourself with the "suit type" of girl.

The Sophisticate

With a trim figure, electric personality and striking rather than regular features, play the sophisticate to a fare-thee-well. Let your coiffure be as sleek as you can arrange. Your clothes can be as severe and tailored as the fashion allows in order to dramatize your witty, intelligent and amusing self to the highest degree. Black and white are two of your best colors. All of your clothes should be high fashion, sensational, dramatic and striking.

If you have chisled features, dreamy eyes and a sensitive nature that loves beauty and art, you are the romantic type that needs the setting of beautifully-textured and subtly-colored clothes. Let everything you choose have a richness. But let everything also be restrained and exquisitely simple. Your hair should be softly styled and never studied in effect.

The Gamin

The gamin is characterized by a boyish figure, impudent features and rebellious hair. Active sports clothes, "crazy" pants for everything from breakfast through late-day moments are yours to choose. Anything gay and unusual, anything with spirit in line, color and fabric expresses your carefree nature. And for your glamorous clothes, be sure there is always a touch of the piquant.

But make no mistake in analyzing yourself and determining your type! This approach to personality presentation is not a matter of posing or acting. It is purely a distilling of your nature to point-up its essence so that you can achieve the greatest impact!

"FIGURED FOR YOU"

Specially prepared by figure and fashion experts EXCLUSIVELY for readers of this column. FIGURED FOR YOU, gives detailed instructions and illustrates how to select foundation garments that provide comeliness, control and healthful comfort for your individual type of figure. DEATHS AND FUNERAL NOTICES

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2 (INS)—Over the weekend Captain Joseph McConnell, who shot down 16 MIGs in Korea—a record—made a trip to Hollywood to close a deal with Warner Brother for his life story, "Triple Jet Ace."

When I was in Apple Valley, Captain Joe and his pretty wife came to pay me a visit. The McConnells were getting ready to move into the new house given them by the proud Apple Valley residents.

Warners want Alan Ladd for the hero role and they have been informed they can expect cooperation from the Air Force.

Tony Curtis has an idea he is trying to sell his U-I bosses—and what a movie it would make.

He wants them to do a picture called "Young David" and let him play the gentle shepherd boy through the early period of his life, ending with his slaying of Goliath. That span, of course, would include the love story of David and Michal, King Saul's daughter, whom he married long before he met Bathsheba.

Tony got the idea while he was making "Beachhead" in Hawaii. In one sequence of that he uses a Bible, and became interested in the story of the youthful David while reading the good book on the set.

Mona Freeman tells me that she is embarrassed by things written about here that are untrue.

She says, "Several months ago when I was in Palm Springs I was proud to accept Bing Crosby's invitation to dine with him and his son, Lindsay. I also played golf with them.

"However, I have not seen Mr. Crosby since Palm Springs nor heard from him for many many weeks. I did not go to Europe to see Mr. Crosby—I did not go to Europe period.

"Each time an item linking Mr. Crosby and myself has appeared I was sure it would be the last one. I have denied having any marriage plans so sincerely and so often that I am just plain bewildered about these continuing items—bewildered and hopelessly embarrassed.

"So I am hoping you will discredit anything you hear on that subject. I don't know whether I shall ever again be invited to dine with Bing and Lindsay Crosby. If I am, I shall certainly accept—they couldn't have been sweeter to me and I enjoyed myself thoroughly."

Writer Bill Bowers is busily preparing a TV series for Ray Bogler. The title is "Where's Raymond" and it's being photographed at

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2 (INS)—Over the weekend Captain Joseph McConnell, who shot down 16 MIGs in Korea—a record—made a trip to Hollywood to close a deal with Warner Brother for his life story, "Triple Jet Ace."

When I was in Apple Valley, Captain Joe and his pretty wife came to pay me a visit. The McConnells were getting ready to move into the new house given them by the proud Apple Valley residents.

Warners want Alan Ladd for the hero role and they have been informed they can expect cooperation from the Air Force.

Tony Curtis has an idea he is trying to sell his U-I bosses—and what a movie it would make.

He wants them to do a picture called "Young David" and let him play the gentle shepherd boy through the early period of his life, ending with his slaying of Goliath. That span, of course, would include the love story of David and Michal, King Saul's daughter, whom he married long before he met Bathsheba.

Tony got the idea while he was making "Beachhead" in Hawaii. In one sequence of that he uses a Bible, and became interested in the story of the youthful David while reading the good book on the set.

Mona Freeman tells me that she is embarrassed by things written about here that are untrue.

She says, "Several months ago when I was in Palm Springs I was proud to accept Bing Crosby's invitation to dine with him and his son, Lindsay. I also played golf with them.

"However, I have not seen Mr. Crosby since Palm Springs nor heard from him for many many weeks. I did not go to Europe to see Mr. Crosby—I did not go to Europe period.

"Each time an item linking Mr. Crosby and myself has appeared I was sure it would be the last one. I have denied having any marriage plans so sincerely and so often that I am just plain bewildered about these continuing items—bewildered and hopelessly embarrassed.

"So I am hoping you will discredit anything you hear on that subject. I don't know whether I shall ever again be invited to dine with Bing and Lindsay Crosby. If I am, I shall certainly accept—they couldn't have been sweeter to me and I enjoyed myself thoroughly."

Writer Bill Bowers is busily preparing a TV series for Ray Bogler. The title is "Where's Raymond" and it's being photographed at

by John Crosby

The problem of late-at-night television is still with us. Let's not hear anything from the back rows that we also have an acute problem in the mornings, the afternoons and the early evenings. Let's concentrate on late-at-night. One thing at a time here.

John Crosby

In the beginning there was Jerry Lester whose show had just the right mixture of brashness, informality and professional verve. It perished on the shoals of temperament. Then there was — and still is — the late show, the late late show, the late late late show — all of them movies, generally the same ones. (Anne Baxter playing the part of her father's daughter, a difficult role. He's the crusading judge and, when he tries to close the gambling houses, he discovers she's up to her hips in debt at one of them. Blackmail, et cetera, and you know the rest.)

Now, we — at least, those of us in New York — have Steve Allen, and it looks at last as if we're getting somewhere. Allen's forty-minute show on WNBT (11:20 p. m. to midnight five times a week) is the brightest thing to come along in a long time. Allen is a wit with taste, a mind of his own and an effortless delivery and pace, just the thing for that hour. How NBC got him away from CBS I can't imagine. Very careless of CBS. Wit and originality are in short supply at the moment and Allen has both.

The Allen show opens with the maestro at the piano, which he plays passably well, though with a certain self-deprecatory air which isn't strictly warranted. From there it may move in any direction. Allen will pick up some screwy toy — a little automobile that runs about or some such thing — and play with it. "We don't have writers in this show; we have mechanics," he'll say. 'You're probably not enjoying this but I am."

Parenthetically, I might add this sort of thing is getting to be awfully popular. Everywhere you turn you find Arthur Godfrey playing with, say, a parachute made of Kleenex or Garry Moore playing with some sort of gadget. The listeners in the old days of radio used to send in letters or little poems. Now they send toys and the high-priced talent plays with the toys in front of forty or fifty million people who should be playing with their own toys. Where will it all end?

From there Allen may dissect a song as Frank Fay once did, reciting the lyrics deadpan, a device which will murder most any lyric. The other night he recited a lyric which sounded like "would you botcha botcha me like I botcha botcha you."

"They're not writing songs like that any more," he remarked at the finish.

Or he may interview — as he did that night — a fihgt manager named Vic Marsella who complains about fight movies. "This fighter, he's getting his brains belted out. The girl, she's thirty-two miles away, and she hears it on the radio he's been knocked down. So she comes to him. The count's up to four when she gets there. My fighters, the count's always eight-nine-ten just like that."

When Allen is tired of carrying the show you'll hear some pretty good jazz, of which there is precious little on television. Then Allen will tell some of his bedtime stories in bepop, an experience that has to be heard to be believed. When Jack of Jack and the beanstalk first lays eyes on the goose that lays the golden eggs, he says: "The gone gosling is Fort Knox for sure." And when the giant comes tumbling down. "And the giant was the gonest."

Or he may read little items from small local newspapers. "A potted dinner was enjoyed at the home of Wilfred Fertle last Thursday," Allen will read, adding quietly: "That'll probably be denied in later editions."

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

SAVE ALL YOU CAN

YOU will find many players who don't care much about a couple of hundred points loss on a rubber bridge hand. They reckon that the next deal may easily make up for it, via a game, a slam or maybe a goodly defeat of a hostile contract. The very best players never have such an attitude. They try to score as much as they can when they do score, and to limit their losses to the smallest possible amount when they lose. In the long run that is the only sound winning policy.

	♠ Q 9 3 2 ♥ K 6 2 ♦ K J 8 4 ♣ 9 5
♠ 10 5 ♥ A 4 3 ♦ Q 10 9 3 ♣ 10 7 6 2	N W E S	♠ A 8 6 4 ♥ Q J 10 ♦ 5 2 ♣ A J 8 4
	♠ K J 7 ♥ 9 8 7 5 ♦ A 7 6 ♣ K Q 3

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

West's pass of that double, which was optional and turned into a business double by North's business pass, was bad rubber bridge. Having four cards of his partner's club suit—more likely a four-card suit than a shorter one—his failure to bid 2-Clubs cost his side two hundred points at least, since a takeout could have been beaten only one trick by proper play all around, and might not even have been doubled, whereas the 1-No Trump was set two tricks.

North made the sound lead of the unbid major, the heart 2, which the 10 won. The club A was followed by the 4 to the Q, and the heart 5 came back to the K. The heart 6 to the Q was won by the A and then the club 7 was led, the J and K playing. South cashed the established heart 9, then the diamond A, and led the diamond 7 to the J. North shot back the spade 2 to the A. West was able to lead to the club 10 for his fifth trick, but then the diamond Q to the K and the spade Q to the K gave the defenders the tricks that put it down two.

West shrugged off that 300 point set, whereas his takeout to 2-Clubs would have limited his side's loss to 100 if doubled, 50 if not, and could not have pushed the vulnerable opponents into any worthwhile contract.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 8 ♥ 10 4 ♦ Q 10 8 7 ♣ A K 9 7 6 2
♠ A J 9 6 5 4 ♥ Q 9 7 ♦ K ♣ J 8 5	N W E S	♠ K Q 3 2 ♥ J 8 6 2 ♦ 9 6 4 2 ♣ 3
	♠ 10 7 ♥ A K 5 3 ♦ A J 5 3 ♣ Q 10 4

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

After normal bidding, if East doubles 5-Diamonds and South redoubles, what would you consider expert defense and offense?

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

The problem of late-at-night television is still with us. Let's not hear anything from the back rows that we also have an acute problem in the mornings, the afternoons and the early evenings. Let's concentrate on late-at-night. One thing at a time here.

John Crosby

In the beginning there was Jerry Lester whose show had just the right mixture of brashness, informality and professional verve. It perished on the shoals of temperament. Then there was — and still is — the late show, the late late show, the late late late show — all of them movies, generally the same ones. (Anne Baxter playing the part of her father's daughter, a difficult role. He's the crusading judge and, when he tries to close the gambling houses, he discovers she's up to her hips in debt at one of them. Blackmail, et cetera, and you know the rest.)

Now, we — at least, those of us in New York — have Steve Allen, and it looks at last as if we're getting somewhere. Allen's forty-minute show on WNBT (11:20 p. m. to midnight five times a week) is the brightest thing to come along in a long time. Allen is a wit with taste, a mind of his own and an effortless delivery and pace, just the thing for that hour. How NBC got him away from CBS I can't imagine. Very careless of CBS. Wit and originality are in short supply at the moment and Allen has both.

The Allen show opens with the maestro at the piano, which he plays passably well, though with a certain self-deprecatory air which isn't strictly warranted. From there it may move in any direction. Allen will pick up some screwy toy — a little automobile that runs about or some such thing — and play with it. "We don't have writers in this show; we have mechanics," he'll say. 'You're probably not enjoying this but I am."

Parenthetically, I might add this sort of thing is getting to be awfully popular. Everywhere you turn you find Arthur Godfrey playing with, say, a parachute made of Kleenex or Garry Moore playing with some sort of gadget. The listeners in the old days of radio used to send in letters or little poems. Now they send toys and the high-priced talent plays with the toys in front of forty or fifty million people who should be playing with their own toys. Where will it all end?

From there Allen may dissect a song as Frank Fay once did, reciting the lyrics deadpan, a device which will murder most any lyric. The other night he recited a lyric which sounded like "would you botcha botcha me like I botcha botcha you."

"They're not writing songs like that any more," he remarked at the finish.

Or he may interview — as he did that night — a fihgt manager named Vic Marsella who complains about fight movies. "This fighter, he's getting his brains belted out. The girl, she's thirty-two miles away, and she hears it on the radio he's been knocked down. So she comes to him. The count's up to four when she gets there. My fighters, the count's always eight-nine-ten just like that."

When Allen is tired of carrying the show you'll hear some pretty good jazz, of which there is precious little on television. Then Allen will tell some of his bedtime stories in bepop, an experience that has to be heard to be believed. When Jack of Jack and the beanstalk first lays eyes on the goose that lays the golden eggs, he says: "The gone gosling is Fort Knox for sure." And when the giant comes tumbling down. "And the giant was the gonest."

Or he may read little items from small local newspapers. "A potted dinner was enjoyed at the home of Wilfred Fertle last Thursday," Allen will read, adding quietly: "That'll probably be denied in later editions."

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

SAVE ALL YOU CAN

YOU will find many players who don't care much about a couple of hundred points loss on a rubber bridge hand. They reckon that the next deal may easily make up for it, via a game, a slam or maybe a goodly defeat of a hostile contract. The very best players never have such an attitude. They try to score as much as they can when they do score, and to limit their losses to the smallest possible amount when they lose. In the long run that is the only sound winning policy.

	♠ Q 9 3 2 ♥ K 6 2 ♦ K J 8 4 ♣ 9 5
♠ 10 5 ♥ A 4 3 ♦ Q 10 9 3 ♣ 10 7 6 2	N W E S	♠ A 8 6 4 ♥ Q J 10 ♦ 5 2 ♣ A J 8 4
	♠ K J 7 ♥ 9 8 7 5 ♦ A 7 6 ♣ K Q 3

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

West's pass of that double, which was optional and turned into a business double by North's business pass, was bad rubber bridge. Having four cards of his partner's club suit—more likely a four-card suit than a shorter one—his failure to bid 2-Clubs cost his side two hundred points at least, since a takeout could have been beaten only one trick by proper play all around, and might not even have been doubled, whereas the 1-No Trump was set two tricks.

North made the sound lead of the unbid major, the heart 2, which the 10 won. The club A was followed by the 4 to the Q, and the heart 5 came back to the K. The heart 6 to the Q was won by the A and then the club 7 was led, the J and K playing. South cashed the established heart 9, then the diamond A, and led the diamond 7 to the J. North shot back the spade 2 to the A. West was able to lead to the club 10 for his fifth trick, but then the diamond Q to the K and the spade Q to the K gave the defenders the tricks that put it down two.

West shrugged off that 300 point set, whereas his takeout to 2-Clubs would have limited his side's loss to 100 if doubled, 50 if not, and could not have pushed the vulnerable opponents into any worthwhile contract.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 8 ♥ 10 4 ♦ Q 10 8 7 ♣ A K 9 7 6 2
♠ A J 9 6 5 4 ♥ Q 9 7 ♦ K ♣ J 8 5	N W E S	♠ K Q 3 2 ♥ J 8 6 2 ♦ 9 6 4 2 ♣ 3
	♠ 10 7 ♥ A K 5 3 ♦ A J 5 3 ♣ Q 10 4

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

After normal bidding, if East doubles 5-Diamonds and South redoubles, what would you consider expert defense and offense?

In Memoriam

In memory of Jack Billard who passed away 1 year ago today, Sept. 3, 1952.

Always so true, unselfish and kind.
Few in this world his equal you'll find.
A beautiful life that came to an end.
He died as he lived, everyone's friend.
Beautiful memories of a smiling face,
A broken link no one can replace.
Whatever else I fail to do. . .
I'll never fail to think of you.

Sadly missed by "Butch".

Tops Them All!
We have in our garage a 1946 Chrysler Windsor 7-passenger 4 door sedan that is in such exceptional condition it is amazing! Honest folks, this car is practically new. It has only been driven 27,000 miles and looks like it has hardly been out of the garage. The brilliant dark blue finish is without a scratch and the chrome trim is perfect. The spotless interior is a dream in blue and chrome with seat covers that show very little wear. The car is equipped with radio and heater and the motor runs like a charm. This is an ideal car for a large family or for anyone who hauls riders to and from work. We've never seen anything like it for a car 7 years old and we'll bet you never have either. If you want to latch on to the bargain of a lifetime, you'd better hurry.

In Memoriam

In memory of Jack Billard who passed away 1 year ago today, Sept. 3, 1952.

Always so true, unselfish and kind.
Few in this world his equal you'll find.
A beautiful life that came to an end.
He died as he lived, everyone's friend.
Beautiful memories of a smiling face,
A broken link no one can replace.
Whatever else I fail to do. . .
I'll never fail to think of you.

Sadly missed by "Butch".

Tops Them All!
We have in our garage a 1946 Chrysler Windsor 7-passenger 4 door sedan that is in such exceptional condition it is amazing! Honest folks, this car is practically new. It has only been driven 27,000 miles and looks like it has hardly been out of the garage. The brilliant dark blue finish is without a scratch and the chrome trim is perfect. The spotless interior is a dream in blue and chrome with seat covers that show very little wear. The car is equipped with radio and heater and the motor runs like a charm. This is an ideal car for a large family or for anyone who hauls riders to and from work. We've never seen anything like it for a car 7 years old and we'll bet you never have either. If you want to latch on to the bargain of a lifetime, you'd better hurry.

Stock Market Continues Its Recovery From 1953 Low

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—In its second straight advance, the stock market today continued its recovery from the low of the year.

All sections of the market got the benefit of the rise which went to around 2 points at the best in key areas.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 60 cents at $103.70. It was up 70 cents yesterday, but on Monday the average dropped $2.20.

The industrial component of the average gained 80 cents while railroads were up 40 cents and utilities were up 30 cents.

The list narrowed down to 1,090 issues, 52 less than yesterday, of which 636 advanced and 220 declined with 2 new highs and 55 new lows for the year were registered.

The two highs were established by Outboard Motor & Marine up ¾ at 38¾ and by Western Pacific preferred up 1 at 99¼. Western Pacific preferred opened at 99¼ on a block of 3,200 shares.

Money Running Out May Require Some Changes In Channel Plans

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN

Unless available funds can be stretched, the City of Cumberland may have to raise more money, or request changes involving less land acquisition in the final phases of the $17,000,000 Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project.

Surveys are being made by the city and the government to determine the amount of local funds needed to complete the project.

The city recently requested a report from the Corps of Engineers concerning the amount of money which will be required from the City of Cumberland as its contributing share in the Flood Control project.

The city, it was explained, had previously indicated to the government that approximately $395,000 would be left for its share of the remaining work, after the completion of three bridges which must be replaced along Wills Creek.

The spans across Baltimore Street, Market Street and Valley Street will cost about $600,000, according to present estimates.

Doesn't Include Land

Early this year, the city turned over to the government $251,000 as its share of the cost of the Industrial Dam, designed to provide a water supply for industries along the Potomac River here and for abutments of the interstate bridge which is to be built on supports provided in the dam structure.

Officials said that in reply, the city has received word that there will be an estimate amount of approximately $370,000 chargeable to the city as its share of the remaining construction work planned along Wills Creek and the Potomac River, including the installation of two pumping stations.

It has been emphasized, however, that this $370,000 figure does not include anything but construction costs which means that the city would have only about $15,000 left for land acquisition.

And the land needed for the project will cost "substantially more" than that amount.

There is considerable land and rights of way acquisition yet to be obtained in Ridgeley, W. Va., and along the Maryland side of the Potomac River, as well as some property yet to be acquired along Wills Creek.

Will Raise Problems

The city is now having an estimate made by the government and by its own real estate representatives as to the approximate amount of money needed for the remaining land acquisition.

When this has been ascertained, officials state that some definite picture will then be developed as to how much the Flood Control program will cost over and above the amounts originally appropriated by the city and county.

Should this amount be substantial, officials said, it will present a considerable problem to city officials and might result in the city requesting some changes in final stages of the Flood Control program.

The city has received suggestions from local engineers that some of the acquisition in the town of Ridgeley, where about 50 properties are needed under present plans, might possibly be eliminated as well as some of the work presently contemplated along the Potomac River.

Other Work Slated

Future phases of the flood job will depend upon how Congress appropriates funds. The current budget includes $950,000 for the project.

The present schedule calls for a number of projects to begin next September. They are the first section of work along the Potomac River, Sections 2 and 3 of Wills Creek and the Viaduct pumping station.

Scheduled in 1955 are the last work on the Wills Creek channel, the second levee contract on the Potomac River and the Mill Race pumping station.

$7 Millions Spent

Up to the present, the government has spent—including work under contract, about $5½ millions and the city has advanced about $1½ millions of the $2½ millions put up by the city and county for the local share of the work.

This local share includes the cost of all land and rights of way, plus any extra construction asked by the city but which is not directly connected with flood control.

City and county funds expended include the major cost of the Industrial Dam, needed to supply industries with water. This could not be charged to the government since it is not flood abatement work.

Just what the total cost of the project will be is anybody's guess, and depends upon whether construction costs rise or fall in the next few years.

Costs Increase

In 1947, when the decision was made to go ahead with the work, available figures showed a cost to the government of $7,417,418 and to the city of $1,520,737, for a total of $8,938,157.

But Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, yesterday recalled that these estimates were based on 1942 prices and that costs had risen 60 per cent by 1946.

Paced with an estimated total cost of $14,297,851, including local costs of about $2½ millions, the city went through with the project after the county agreed to put up $1,000,000 as its contributed share.

Cresaptown Man Gets Promotion In Army Reserve

Roger W. Lynch, Cresaptown, of Headquarters, 810th Signal Battalion (Service), U. S. Army Reserve, has been appointed to the rank of first lieutenant, it was announced this week by Major Grant E. Hoover, unit advisor.

Cresaptown Teacher

Lynch, a teacher at Cresaptown Junior High School, is a veteran of World War II, enlisting in the U. S. Marine Corps June 17, 1941. After completing basic training at Parris Island, S. C., he was assigned to a Regimental Weapons Company, First Marine Division, New River, N. C.

The local reservist served 33 months overseas with the First Marine Division and saw action in campaigns at Guadalcanal, Cape Gloucester and Peleleiu. Lynch also served in other sections of the Pacific Theatre including New Zealand, Australia, New Guinea and the Russell Islands.

He returned to the United States May 22, 1945 and was discharged September 28 of that year. Following his separation from the service, Lynch enlisted in the Marine Reserve.

Later he attended and graduated from Maryland University where he also studied advanced ROTC training and was commissioned a second lieutenant.

Three Request Active Duty

On May 24, 1949, he enlisted in the Army Reserve and joined the 810th Signal Battalion here April 18, 1951. Lynch is married to Dolores Jean Lynch and reside at Judy's Apartments, Cresaptown.

Reserve officers also announced that three reservists have requested and were approved for 24 months of active duty in the Army.

Sfc. Ralph T. Johnson, 28 Park Avenue, Frostburg, of the 941st Explosive Ordnance Squad, and Sfc. Lorring Q. Baldwin, RD 6, this city, have reported to the Third Armored Division, Fort Knox, Ky.

Man Hurt In Fall Hospitalized Again

Homer William Marlow, 43, of Martinsburg, who was treated at Sacred Heart Hospital for head injuries Tuesday evening after he fell attempting to board a freight train, was taken to the hospital again shortly after midnight yesterday.

Attaches said his condition was fair last night. Authorities said Marlow suffered deep head lacerations and injury to his pelvis. X-rays were taken yesterday.

After Marlow was treated Tuesday evening at the hospital, he was lodged in the City Jail. He was taken to the hospital again after authorities noticed he showed signs of being delirious. Attaches at the hospital said he was "confused" at times.

A companion, Walter E. James, 39, of Baltimore, who was taken off the train at Hyndman, yesterday was given a suspended sentence of six months in the Maryland House of Correction in Trial Magistrate Court on charges of traspassing on railroad property. The two men were going to Ohio to seek work and sought to hitch a free ride on the train. James boarded the train without difficulty, but Marlow slipped and fell between the tracks at the Baltimore Street crossing.

Park Board To Meet

The City Park Board will meet next Tuesday at 2 p. m. in City Hall.

Record Smashing Temperatures In Area Continue

Mercury Hits 101 As Relief Seen Friday

Yesterday's sizzling hot temperatures smashed another record — this time dating back to 1872.

Official high yesterday was 101 degrees in Cumberland, the only September 2 reading of 101 since 1872 when observers began compiling the figures.

Yesterday's high temperature was also a record for the month of September since 1932. A 103-degree reading was measured on September 1, 1932 at the weather station at City Hall.

Other September highs were 98 in 1900; 98 in 1914 and 1930; 99 in 1931, 1939 and 1946, and 96 in 1952.

Humidity Climbing

Low yesterday was 68 degrees according to Robert R. Golden, observer at Constitution Park, and humidity at 6 p. m. was 44 per cent. Mercury at 8:30 p. m. here was 81 degrees.

Although clouds gathered over the Queen City early yesterday, no rain fell and the sky began to clear last evening. The Weather Bureau last night issued a more definite forecast and said a break in the heat wave is due Friday.

At the same time, forecasters and farmers are praying for rain. It is needed badly. R. E. Weber, Weather Bureau observer at Oakland said the seven days of rain in the first part of August has helped crops immeasurably. Cauliflower, a large market crop in Garrett County, is being cut daily, he said, but tomatoes and other garden crops are maturing slowly.

Weber reported the corn crop is fair, but needs rain.

Ralph F. McHenry, Allegany County farm agent, said the corn crop in the upland fields has been ruined by the drought. The late tomatoes in this county are small in size, he said, and many important varieties of apples are in the sizing stage now and rain is needed badly. Grass may recuperate if rain arrives soon, he added.

No more forest fires have been reported in the district but crewmen at fire towers are on alert as forest floors have become dry as tinder.

Corn Crops Ruined

Robert M. Beall, engineer in charge of the local office of the Geographical Survey, U. S. Department of the Interior, said about one-fourth of the water in the Potomac passing Cumberland was supplied by Savage River Dam in the earlier part of August, but in the current heat wave, it boosted its supply to half.

The mean daily flow of the North Branch Potomac River at Cumberland during August was 175 cubic feet per second or 113 million gallons a day. This is 48.8 per cent below normal, Beall said.

The daily flow varied between 456 cubic feet per second on August 29 and 30.

Operation of Savage Rover Reservoir caused an average increase of 40.3 cubic feet per second, or 25 per cent of the flow in the river at Cumberland. Water was released throughout the month to sustain the flow in the Potomac, and at the end of the month almost half of the flow at Cumberland was water released from the dam.

Owns 79 Horses, Big And Small

Diana Sue Petty, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross H. Petty, 105 Luteman Road, is shown with her collection of horse figurines which she has gathered from all parts of the U. S. and some foreign countries. The young horse lover will be a wide-eyed spectator at the Cumberland Horse Show this weekend. Little Diana also paints, and she is shown holding her latest work. In her other hand she is holding her favorite miniature, a western type saddle horse purchased for her by her father near the Grand Canyon during a trip to California.

Reduced Turnpike Speed Failing To Prevent Accidents

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 2 (AP)—A Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission official reported today the experimental lower speed limit on the toll road's western section has not produced a significant decrease in the accident rate up to now.

"Our experiments show that the accident rate is only holding its own on the western section," said Commissioner David E. Watson.

Early this year the commission lowered the speed limit to 60 miles per hour on the Turnpike west of the Breezewood Interchange. The 70 m.p.h. speed limit remained in force for the eastern half of the 327-mile highway.

Watson said, however, the speed tests would not be completed until Jan. 25.

"We cannot really tell if the experiment will show a reduced accident rate until we have seen results during some winter months," he added.

Watson said the steel medial strip experiments are effective in cutting down cross-over accidents.

"So far we think they are very good," he said. "We have had no reports of serious accidents where they have been set up."

City Tax Statements Are Being Prepared

Tax bills are being prepared at City Hall at the rate of about 250 a day.

Addresses and assessments are being placed on the statements by the City Collector's Office and the tax is being computed and recorded by the Finance Department.

The bills are to be mailed about September 24, according to George E. Davis, city collector.

Talented 10-Year-Old Miss Has Interest In Collection

By LARRY T. GRECO

One enthusiastic viewer of the Cumberland Horse Show to be held at Fairgo this weekend will be 10-year-old Diana Sue Petty who has 79 horses of her own.

Her collection made up of figurine miniatures of china, wood, blown glass, plaster, metal and alabaster has been assembled from all parts of the United States and some foreign countries.

All Sizes Of Horses

Diana has offered her treasured horses for use by the Cumberland Lions Club to help publicize the horse show being held for the benefit of the club's sight conservation and crippled children's assistance program.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross H. Petty, 105 Luteman Road, Diana started her hobby of collecting horse figurines about three years ago.

Many of the miniatures were bought for Diana from many sections of the nation by her father whose job with Hercules Powder Company sends him all over the United States. Others were sent to the young horse lover by relatives and friends as gifts, while Diana hunted and found many herself.

Her favorite horse, one with a western type saddle and accessories, was purchased in the Grand Canyon by her father while on a trip to California. Included in the collection are a horse figure carved in Italy, three made in Sweden and one constructed of Italian alabaster.

Has Chinese Legend

One group of the still animals even has a legend. They represent the "Eight Horses of Heaven" which were owned and loved by an early Chinese emperor. According to the legend, the eight animals died and remained in the same position they were standing, at the same moment the emperor passed away.

The eight figures are shown in various contorted positions as if turned to solid material by the wave of a magic wand.

In addition, little Diana paints pictures. One of her works hangs over the mantle in the Petty living room. As you may guess, it is a painting of a horse's head in full color. She is at present working on another painting, another horse.

Diana would like to own a live pony, but she is content with the next best thing.

Diana's family is originally from Silver Spring and moved to Cumberland five weeks ago after Mr. Petty was assigned as assistant to Dr. Lyman Bonner, technical director, at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto.

This fall, Diana will attend classes at Mt. Royal School, while her brother, Leonard, 14, and sister, Sheill, 16, will go to Allegany High School.

W. Md. Train Hits Truck On Oldtown Grade Crossing

An Oldtown grocer narrowly escaped death yesterday afternoon when a truck he was driving stalled on the Western Maryland Railway crossing in that community and was struck by a locomotive.

The freight train headed East from Cumberland to Hagerstown was delayed about half an hour.

Lewis was hauling feed and lumber from Cumberland to his grocery store in Oldtown when the accident occurred about 3:30 p. m. The entire truck was practically demolished with damage estimated at about $500.

The supplies were reported undamaged.

Newly Appointed Rent Control Board Fixes Policy, Procedure

Group Will Attempt To Operate Without Laws To Support Action

Members of the Advisory Rent Control Committee, set up by a resolution of the Mayor and Council August 10, met at City Hall last night to formulate its policy and procedure of operation and begin study of complaints.

The group's work will consist of accepting complaints from either landlords or tenants. Then an investigator will look into the problem and confer with the landlord or tenant. If no satisfactory agreement is reached, the investigator will refer the case back to the committee.

The committee will then study the case and attempt to arrive at a suitable agreement between the landlord and tenant.

No Legal Status

The volunteer committee has no legal status, nor has it laws to enforce its conclusions in any case. Members will act at arbitrators by requesting landlords to make rent increases reasonable.

The committee explained it does not have jurisdiction to enforce requests, but if there is a sufficient number of justified complaints which cannot be settled by the group, then the ultimate recourse will be for the committee to recommend that the Mayor and Council take necessary action to correct the situation.

The group emphasized it does not want to indulge in complaints which involve personalities and matters of personal nature and differences between landlord and tenant.

Members explained that the Mayor and Council have the authority to invoke rent control ordnances. This authority was given to the city and county by legislation passed at the last session of the legislature.

Have Investigator

The group pointed out that complaints to the committee should be made in writing or by visiting the Advisory Rent Control Committee office in the City Hall. The office will be in charge of Miss Elizabeth Lippold, formerly with the Federal Rent Control Board.

Miss Lippold, secretary-investigator for the group, will check the complaint by visiting the home and conferring with the landlord so as so get both sides of the case and reconcile the differences. She will report to the committee on all cases.

Members last night began studying seven complaints, all from tenants.

The committee includes Donald W. Mason, chairman; G. Glenn Watson, James B. Reinhart, Charles Bramble, and Edwin C. Hoffman.

Woman Is Held For Breaking, Entering Store

Arrested By Use Of Marked Money

A Westernport woman was lodged in Allegany County jail last night on a charge of breaking and entering a grocery store in that community.

Police identified her as Nettie Dawson, about 30, of Philos Avenue. She was taken into custody yesterday by Trooper Harry Bosley of the Maryland State Police and Police Chief James Griffith of Westernport.

The store she admitted breaking and entering is owned by George Ellis and is located on Howard Street. Ellis reported to police that his store had been burglarized about three times in the past couple weeks.

Trooper Bosley and Chief Griffith arranged with Ellis to have some marked money left in his cash register.

He left a half dollar, three quarters, five nickels and five dimes in the register, police noted. Yesterday morning he found his store had again been broken into and the marked money taken.

Later in the day a little girl went to the store to purchase some candy with one of the marked nickels. After Ellis notified police they went to the Dawson home and talked with her after learning the little girl had gotten the nickel from Miss Dawson.

Police asked to see Miss Dawson's pocketbook and found the rest of the marked coins. She later admitted to breaking and entering the store through a rear window, police said.

She will be taken to the State's Attorney's office today for questioning. Police said she had previously been sentenced to the Maryland Women's Reformatory on a forged check count.

License Commissioners Grant Beer Permit

The Allegany County Board of License Commissioners awarded a beer license to Pearl F. Neilson, Frostburg, for premises on Route 36 at Wright's Crossing.

Two transfers of licenses also were approved. Justus J. Garbenstein, Mary Emma Carolan and Helen P. Carolan were awarded the Class D beer, wine and liquor license of the Cumberland Liquor Store, 419 Henderson Avenue. The permit formerly held by Terence, Anna and Helen P. Carolan was surrendered.

Edwin B. Hartman and Margaret V. Hartman were awarded a Class D beer license for premises on Valley Road. A permit formerly held at that location by James Leslie Cook was surrendered.

Brief Stoppage Ends At Local Brewing Plant

Production at the Queen City Brewing Company was resumed last night at 11 o'clock after workers, affiliated with Local 265, Brewery Workers Union (CIO) agreed with all but one of the provisions of a return-to-work offer of the company.

The some 60 employes, who struck yesterday at 5 a. m., held a special meeting in the Eagles Home last night and agreed, following a report of their negotiators, to return to work while one remaining grievance was settled.

Orville Young, president, said the stoppage resulted from violations of the union's contract, chiefly pertaining to seniority and working conditions.

He said a harmonious agreement has been reached with the company on all issues except one which involves job rights of one individual.

The major issues, involving work loads, changes in working hours and seniority rights, were negotiated by company and union workers at two meetings held yesterday and were ratified last night by members involved.

The union, according to its agreement, supplied maintenance workers at the plant during the stoppage.

Company officials did not comment on the dispute except to say yesterday afternoon that they believed a satisfactory offer had been made and that they hoped the membership would find the proposals satisfactory.

The union negotiations were conducted by Young, W. C. Reighard, secretary, and Earl Sills, George Aman, Gus Carpenti, George Hershick, Chester Stewart and Carroll Sullivan, committeemen.

Maryland Educator Says Children Being Shortchanged

By HUELL WARREN

BALTIMORE, Sept. 2 (AP)—"We're shortchanging our children," says one Maryland leader concerned with public schools.

"We have good schools — they're a good place to be," says another.

Between these poles, Maryland educators, parents, politicians, and plain by-standers find a lot of room for argument as the state's public schools prepare to open for 1953-54.

Much of the evidence seems to align itself with Joseph A. Hunter, president of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers and utterer of the "shortchanging" comment.

The 405,000 youngsters all set to troop to school next week will jam available classrooms to bursting.

Some will study their lessons in school cafeterias. Some will have classes in church basements or lodge halls. Some will get only four hours of school a day, to make way for another shift.

Some teachers still will only get $2,800 for their year's work. Many have left. Some of the county school systems will have brand new teachers in half their classrooms. Classes will average 42 to a teacher in at least one county—against the state's goal of 30—and in isolated instances it may run to 50.

A high percentage of teachers will be "emergency certificated." They don't have all the schooling or other qualifications Maryland normally requires. But not enough fully qualified teachers can be found.

So, you assume, your child won't have a chance in public school to get as good an education as you did. The level of education surely must have dropped.

"Oh, no it hasn't," says Dr. David W. Zimmerman on behalf of the State Department of Education.

Why hasn't it?

Dr. Zimmerman bucks that question to Mrs. Grace Alden Dorsey, state superintendent of elementary instruction.

"We work like turks" says Mrs. Dorsey, pinning you with a determined look as she rallies her thoughts and experience for an opening counter-thrust.

"For one thing," she says, "our teachers are learning to know more about children."

Mrs. Dorsey then outlines for you the Child Study Program the Maryland schools have been pursuing since 1945.

A high percentage of teachers have been devoting at least four hours a month to it — two hours of it their own time. The state department conducts the course for principals and supervisors, they in turn pass it along to classroom teachers in the counties.

It's a combination course in psychology, sociology, philosophy and public health.

When it started seven years ago, everything was on a volunteer basis. Now many of Maryland's county school systems decline to sign up a teacher who won't agree to participate.

"For another thing," continues Mrs. Dorsey, "there's our language-arts program."

It works on the pattern of the Child Study Program, but its purpose is to improve the teaching of specific subjects and the specific emphasized most has been reading.

Mrs. Dorsey ticks off her points fast now: Better teaching techniques. Better testing methods. Better teaching materials. Big advances, worked out in many cases by the Armed Forces during the war, in visual aids — cartoons to drive lessons home, photographs, movies, working models.

Although a high number of Maryland teachers this year are not able to measure up to the "on paper" requirements for a fully qualified teacher, Mrs. Dorsey hazards the opinion the general level of classroom proficiency and devotion to the chore is higher.

Would you guess this year's teachers include a couple of men who bit off promising careers in atomic engineering because they decided there are rewards in teaching more important than the money you don't get?

"More parents are going to school than ever before," Mrs. Dorsey concludes.

She estimates there is nothing more important than this personal contact of parent with teacher in the effort to keep the level of education high in face of the adversities which beset the schools.

Some localities have even developed a "Child Study Program" for parents, searching for ways in which parents can help Junior learn without falling into the error of doing his artihmetic for him.

"We have good schools," Mrs. Dorsey says. "They're a good place to be."

Dr. John H. Fisher, superintendent of Baltimore's public schools, strikes a slightly different balance.

"The growing public interest in schools is something good that has come out of these bad days," he says.

"We have a plan of releasing our best teachers from some of their class work so they can circulate among other rooms and help less qualified teachers.

"One in six of our teachers is a 'substitute,' not fully qualified by our formal standards. Once in six years, a child is apt to have one of these substitutes for a teacher. We feel his other five will do such good jobs the child won't suffer for that one year.

"Certainly, the child is being affected adversely by these problems which face the schools. It is not that the quality of education has fallen below a generation ago. We just are not doing the job we would be doing if we didn't have the problems to contend with."

Safety Of Children On School Buses Poses Problem For Mineral County School Board

By ROSS W. PRYSOCK

The W. Va. State Road Commission appears to have passed the buck to the Mineral County Board of Education with a warning that certain bridges over which school buses must cross in carrying students to and from school in the rural districts are not strong enough to carry a bus load of students. The commission warns that if the buses carry a load beyond the prescribed load limit, and an accident occurs, the school board will be liable for damages.

H. L. Idleman, superintendent of Mineral County schools said at Keyser yesterday he has been advised that the School Board could be held liable if any of the bridges collapsed under the weight of the loaded buses and if there were persons injured. He listed the bridges as: New Creek, near the Blue Jay Tavern; Patterson Creek, at Reeses Mill; Patterson Creek, at Russelldale, and a small stream at Oakmont in Elk District.

Idleman said that if the bridges are not strengthened to carry the combined weight of students and buses, it will to necessary to unload and re-load the children at either end of the bridges, so the bus may cross empty and the children cross on foot.

The superintendent called attention to the extra danger at the New Creek bridge, where the children would have to leave the bus on the right side of New Creek road, walk across the highway, which is U. S. Route 220, heavily travelled and often times dangerous, then cross the bridge and again board the bus.

Apparently state road commission officials do not contemplate making any corrections in the bridges at this time, he observed, although no statements have been made on the matter, and the procedure recommended for handling the students may continue through a full school year, in all kinds of weather.

Idleman said the commission officials claim this would have to be the procedure unless the gross weight of the buses is lessened.

The situation is one of worry to many parents of children who must ride the buses to and from school. They face the danger of having their children badly injured or killed if a bridge should collapse under the alleged gross weight, and they face probable serious disease from exposure or from being struck by a moving automobile or truck on a heavily travelled highway when required to alight from the buses and walk across the highway, where traffic is heavy and many vehicles travel at dangerous speeds.

City Views Problem Of Funds To Finish Flood Control Job

Money Running Out May Require Some Changes In Channel Plans

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN

Unless available funds can be stretched, the City of Cumberland may have to raise more money, or request changes involving less land acquisition in the final phases of the $17,000,000 Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project.

Surveys are being made by the city and the government to determine the amount of local funds needed to complete the project.

The city recently requested a report from the Corps of Engineers concerning the amount of money which will be required from the City of Cumberland as its contributing share in the Flood Control project.

The city, it was explained, had previously indicated to the government that approximately $395,000 would be left for its share of the remaining work, after the completion of three bridges which must be replaced along Wills Creek.

The spans across Baltimore Street, Market Street and Valley Street will cost about $600,000, according to present estimates.

Doesn't Include Land

Early this year, the city turned over to the government $251,000 as its share of the cost of the Industrial Dam, designed to provide a water supply for industries along the Potomac River here and for abutments of the interstate bridge which is to be built on supports provided in the dam structure.

Officials said that in reply, the city has received word that there will be an estimate amount of approximately $370,000 chargeable to the city as its share of the remaining construction work planned along Wills Creek and the Potomac River, including the installation of two pumping stations.

It has been emphasized, however, that this $370,000 figure does not include anything but construction costs which means that the city would have only about $15,000 left for land acquisition.

And the land needed for the project will cost "substantially more" than that amount.

There is considerable land and rights of way acquisition yet to be obtained in Ridgeley, W. Va., and along the Maryland side of the Potomac River, as well as some property yet to be acquired along Wills Creek.

Will Raise Problems

The city is now having an estimate made by the government and by its own real estate representatives as to the approximate amount of money needed for the remaining land acquisition.

When this has been ascertained, officials state that some definite picture will then be developed as to how much the Flood Control program will cost over and above the amounts originally appropriated by the city and county.

Should this amount be substantial, officials said, it will present a considerable problem to city officials and might result in the city requesting some changes in final stages of the Flood Control program.

The city has received suggestions from local engineers that some of the acquisition in the town of Ridgeley, where about 50 properties are needed under present plans, might possibly be eliminated as well as some of the work presently contemplated along the Potomac River.

Other Work Slated

Future phases of the flood job will depend upon how Congress appropriates funds. The current budget includes $950,000 for the project.

The present schedule calls for a number of projects to begin next September. They are the first section of work along the Potomac River, Sections 2 and 3 of Wills Creek and the Viaduct pumping station.

Scheduled in 1955 are the last work on the Wills Creek channel, the second levee contract on the Potomac River and the Mill Race pumping station.

$7 Millions Spent

Up to the present, the government has spent—including work under contract, about $5½ millions and the city has advanced about $1½ millions of the $2½ millions put up by the city and county for the local share of the work.

This local share includes the cost of all land and rights of way, plus any extra construction asked by the city but which is not directly connected with flood control.

City and county funds expended include the major cost of the Industrial Dam, needed to supply industries with water. This could not be charged to the government since it is not flood abatement work.

Just what the total cost of the project will be is anybody's guess, and depends upon whether construction costs rise or fall in the next few years.

Costs Increase

In 1947, when the decision was made to go ahead with the work, available figures showed a cost to the government of $7,417,418 and to the city of $1,520,737, for a total of $8,938,157.

But Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, yesterday recalled that these estimates were based on 1942 prices and that costs had risen 60 per cent by 1946.

Faced with an estimated total cost of $14,297,851, including local costs of about $2½ millions, the city went through with the project after the county agreed to put up $1,000,000 as its contributed share.

Lynch, a teacher at Cresaptown Junior High School, is a veteran of World War II, enlisting in the U. S. Marine Corps June 17, 1941. After completing basic training at Parris Island, S. C., he was assigned to a Regimental Weapons Company, First Marine Division, New River, N. C.

He returned to the United States May 22, 1945 and was discharged September 28 of that year. Following his separation from the service, Lynch enlisted in the Marine Reserve.

Later he attended and graduated from Maryland University where he also studied advanced ROTC training and was commissioned a second lieutenant.

Man Hurt In Fall Hospitalized Again

Homer William Marlow, 43, of Martinsburg, who was treated at Sacred Heart Hospital for head injuries Tuesday evening after he fell attempting to board a freight train, was taken to the hospital again shortly after midnight yesterday.

Attaches said his condition was fair last night. Authorities said Marlow suffered deep head lacerations and injury to his pelvis. X-rays were taken yesterday.

After Marlow was treated Tuesday evening at the hospital, he was lodged in the City Jail. He was taken to the hospital again after authorities noticed he showed signs of being delirious. Attaches at the hospital said he was "confused" at times.

A companion, Walter E. James, 39, of Baltimore, who was taken off the train at Hyndman, yesterday was given a suspended sentence of six months in the Maryland House of Correction in Trial Magistrate Court on charges of traspassing on railroad property. The two men were going to Ohio to seek work and sought to hitch a free ride on the train. James boarded the train without difficulty, but Marlow slipped and fell between the tracks at the Baltimore Street crossing.

Park Board To Meet

The City Park Board will meet next Tuesday at 2 p. m. in City Hall.

Record Smashing Temperatures In Area Continue

Mercury Hits 101 As Relief Seen Friday

Yesterday's sizzling hot temperatures smashed another record — this time dating back to 1872.

Official high yesterday was 101 degrees in Cumberland, the only September 2 reading of 101 since 1872 when observers began compiling the figures.

Yesterday's high temperature was also a record for the month of September since 1932. A 103-degree reading was measured on September 1, 1932 at the weather station at City Hall.

Other September highs were 98 in 1900; 98 in 1914 and 1930; 99 in 1931, 1939 and 1946, and 96 in 1952.

Humidity Climbing

Low yesterday was 68 degrees according to Robert R. Golden, observer at Constitution Park, and humidity at 6 p. m. was 44 per cent. Mercury at 8:30 p. m. here was 81 degrees.

Although clouds gathered over the Queen City early yesterday, no rain fell and the sky began to clear last evening. The Weather Bureau last night issued a more definite forecast and said a break in the heat wave is due Friday.

At the same time, forecasters and farmers are praying for rain. It is needed badly. R. E. Weber, Weather Bureau observer at Oakland said the seven days of rain in the first part of August has helped crops immeasurably. Cauliflower, a large market crop in Garrett County, is being cut daily, he said, but tomatoes and other garden crops are maturing slowly.

Weber reported the corn crop is fair, but needs rain.

Ralph F. McHenry, Allegany County farm agent, said the corn crop in the upland fields has been ruined by the drought. The late tomatoes in this county are small in size, he said, and many important varieties of apples are in the sizing stage now and rain is needed badly. Grass may recuperate if rain arrives soon, he added.

No more forest fires have been reported in the district but crewmen at fire towers are on alert as forest floors have become dry as tinder.

Corn Crops Ruined

Robert M. Beall, engineer in charge of the local office of the Geographical Survey, U. S. Department of the Interior, said about one-fourth of the water in the Potomac passing Cumberland was supplied by Savage River Dam in the earlier part of August, but in the current heat wave, it boosted its supply to half.

The mean daily flow of the North Branch Potomac River at Cumberland during August was 175 cubic feet per second or 113 million gallons a day. This is 48.8 per cent below normal, Beall said.

The daily flow varied between 456 cubic feet per second on August 29 and 30.

Operation of Savage Rover Reservoir caused an average increase of 40.3 cubic feet per second, or 25 per cent of the flow in the river at Cumberland. Water was released throughout the month to sustain the flow in the Potomac, and at the end of the month almost half of the flow at Cumberland was water released from the dam.

Owns 79 Horses, Big And Small

Diana Sue Petty, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross H. Petty, 105 Luteman Road, is shown with her collection of horse figurines which she has gathered from all parts of the U. S. and some foreign countries. The young horse lover will be a wide-eyed spectator at the Cumberland Horse Show this weekend. Little Diana also paints, and she is shown holding her latest work. In her other hand she is holding her favorite miniature, a western type saddle horse purchased for her by her father near the Grand Canyon during a trip to California.

Reduced Turnpike Speed Failing To Prevent Accidents

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 2 (AP)—A Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission official reported today the experimental lower speed limit on the toll road's western section has not produced a significant decrease in the accident rate up to now.

"Our experiments show that the accident rate is only holding its own on the western section," said Commissioner David E. Watson.

Early this year the commission lowered the speed limit to 60 miles per hour on the Turnpike west of the Breezewood Interchange. The 70 m.p.h. speed limit remained in force for the eastern half of the 327-mile highway.

Watson said, however, the speed tests would not be completed until Jan. 25.

"We cannot really tell if the experiment will show a reduced accident rate until we have seen results during some winter months," he added.

Watson said the steel medial strip experiments are effective in cutting down cross-over accidents.

"So far we think they are very good," he said. "We have had no reports of serious accidents where they have been set up."

Talented 10-Year-Old Miss Has Interest In Collection

By LARRY T. GRECO

One enthusiastic viewer of the Cumberland Horse Show to be held at Fairgo this weekend will be 10-year-old Diana Sue Petty who has 79 horses of her own.

Her collection made up of figurine miniatures of china, wood, blown glass, plaster, metal and alabaster has been assembled from all parts of the United States and some foreign countries.

All Sizes Of Horses

Diana has offered her treasured horses for use by the Cumberland Lions Club to help publicize the horse show being held for the benefit of the club's sight conservation and crippled children's assistance program.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross H. Petty, 105 Luteman Road, Diana started her hobby of collecting horse figurines about three years ago.

Many of the miniatures were bought for Diana from many sections of the nation by her father whose job with Hercules Powder Company sends him all over the United States. Others were sent to the young horse lover by relatives and friends as gifts, while Diana hunted and found many herself.

Her favorite horse, one with a western type saddle and accessories, was purchased in the Grand Canyon by her father while on a trip to California. Included in the collection are a horse figure carved in Italy, three made in Sweden and one constructed of Italian alabaster.

Has Chinese Legend

One group of the still animals even has a legend. They represent the "Eight Horses of Heaven" which were owned and loved by an early Chinese emperor. According to the legend, the eight animals died and remained in the same position they were standing, at the same moment the emperor passed away.

The eight figures are shown in various contorted positions as if turned to solid material by the wave of a magic wand.

In addition, little Diana paints pictures. One of her works hangs over the mantle in the Petty living room. As you may guess, it is a painting of a horse's head in full color. She is at present working on another painting, another horse.

Diana would like to own a live pony, but she is content with the next best thing.

Diana's family is originally from Silver Spring and moved to Cumberland five weeks ago after Mr. Petty was assigned as assistant to Dr. Lyman Bonner, technical director, at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto.

This fall, Diana will attend classes at Mt. Royal School, while her brother, Leonard, 14, and sister, Sheill, 16, will go to Allegany High School.

W. Md. Train Hits Truck On Oldtown Grade Crossing

An Oldtown grocer narrowly escaped death yesterday afternoon when a truck he was driving stalled on the Western Maryland Railway crossing in that community and was struck by a locomotive.

He is Melvin R. Lewis, about 42, who leaped from the cab of his truck to safety as Train 1405 rammed into the right front of the vehicle spinning it around into a ditch.

The freight train headed East from Cumberland to Hagerstown was delayed about half an hour.

Lewis was hauling feed and lumber from Cumberland to his grocery store in Oldtown when the accident occurred about 3:30 p. m. The entire truck was practically demolished with damage estimated at about $500.

The supplies were reported undamaged.

Group Will Attempt To Operate Without Laws To Support Action

Members of the Advisory Rent Control Committee, set up by a resolution of the Mayor and Council August 10, met at City Hall last night to formulate its policy and procedure of operation and begin study of complaints.

The group's work will consist of accepting complaints from either landlords or tenants. Then an investigator will look into the problem and confer with the landlord or tenant. If no satisfactory agreement is reached, the investigator will refer the case back to the committee.

The committee will then study the case and attempt to arrive at a suitable agreement between the landlord and tenant.

No Legal Status

The volunteer committee has no legal status, nor has it laws to enforce its conclusions in any case. Members will act at arbitrators by requesting landlords to make rent increases reasonable.

The committee explained it does not have jurisdiction to enforce requests, but if there is a sufficient number of justified complaints which cannot be settled by the group, then the ultimate recourse will be for the committee to recommend that the Mayor and Council take necessary action to correct the situation.

The group emphasized it does not want to indulge in complaints which involve personalities and matters of personal nature and differences between landlord and tenant.

Members explained that the Mayor and Council have the authority to invoke rent control ordnances. This authority was given to the city and county by legislation passed at the last session of the legislature.

Have Investigator

The group pointed out that complaints to the committee should be made in writing or by visiting the Advisory Rent Control Committee office in the City Hall. The office will be in charge of Miss Elizabeth Lippold, formerly with the Federal Rent Control Board.

Miss Lippold, secretary-investigator for the group, will check the complaint by visiting the home and conferring with the landlord so as so get both sides of the case and reconcile the differences. She will report to the committee on all cases.

Members last night began studying seven complaints, all from tenants.

The committee includes Donald W. Mason, chairman; G. Glenn Watson, James B. Reinhart, Charles Bramble, and Edwin C. Hoffman.

Arrested By Use Of Marked Money

A Westernport woman was lodged in Allegany County jail last night on a charge of breaking and entering a grocery store in that community.

Police identified her as Nettie Dawson, about 30, of Philos Avenue. She was taken into custody yesterday by Trooper Harry Bosley of the Maryland State Police and Police Chief James Griffith of Westernport.

The store she admitted breaking and entering is owned by George Ellis and is located on Howard Street. Ellis reported to police that his store had been burglarized about three times in the past couple weeks.

Trooper Bosley and Chief Griffith arranged with Ellis to have some marked money left in his cash register.

He left a half dollar, three quarters, five nickels and five dimes in the register, police noted. Yesterday morning he found his store had again been broken into and the marked money taken.

Later in the day a little girl went to the store to purchase some candy with one of the marked nickels. After Ellis notified police they went to the Dawson home and talked with her after learning the little girl had gotten the nickel from Miss Dawson.

Police asked to see Miss Dawson's pocketbook and found the rest of the marked coins. She later admitted to breaking and entering the store through a rear window, police said.

She will be taken to the State's Attorney's office today for questioning. Police said she had previously been sentenced to the Maryland Women's Reformatory on a forged check count.

License Commissioners Grant Beer Permit

The Allegany County Board of License Commissioners awarded a beer license to Pearl F. Neilson, Frostburg, for premises on Route 36 at Wright's Crossing.

Two transfers of licenses also were approved. Justus J. Garbenstein, Mary Emma Carolan and Helen P. Carolan were awarded the Class D beer, wine and liquor license of the Cumberland Liquor Store, 419 Henderson Avenue. The permit formerly held by Terence, Anna and Helen P. Carolan was surrendered.

Edwin B. Hartman and Margaret V. Hartman were awarded a Class D beer license for premises on Valley Road. A permit formerly held at that location by James Leslie Cook was surrendered.

Brief Stoppage Ends At Local Brewing Plant

Production at the Queen City Brewing Company was resumed last night at 11 o'clock after workers, affiliated with Local 265, Brewery Workers Union (CIO) agreed with all but one of the provisions of a return-to-work offer of the company.

The some 60 employes, who struck yesterday at 5 a. m., held a special meeting in the Eagles Home last night and agreed, following a report of their negotiators, to return to work while one remaining grievance was settled.

Orville Young, president, said the stoppage resulted from violations of the union's contract, chiefly pertaining to seniority and working conditions.

He said a harmonious agreement has been reached with the company on all issues except one which involves job rights of one individual.

The major issues, involving work loads, changes in working hours and seniority rights, were negotiated by company and union workers at two meetings held yesterday and were ratified last night by members involved.

The union, according to its agreement, supplied maintenance workers at the plant during the stoppage.

Company officials did not comment on the dispute except to say yesterday afternoon that they believed a satisfactory offer had been made and that they hoped the membership would find the proposals satisfactory.

The union negotiations were conducted by Young, W. C. Reighard, secretary, and Earl Sills, George Aman, Gus Carpenti, George Hershick, Chester Stewart and Carroll Sullivan, committeemen.

Maryland Educator Says Children Being Shortchanged

By HUELL WARREN

BALTIMORE, Sept. 2 (AP)—"We're shortchanging our children," says one Maryland leader concerned with public schools.

"We have good schools — they're a good place to be," says another.

Between these poles, Maryland educators, parents, politicians, and plain by-standers find a lot of room for argument as the state's public schools prepare to open for 1953-54.

Much of the evidence seems to align itself with Joseph A. Hunter, president of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers and utterer of the "shortchanging" comment.

The 405,000 youngsters all set to troop to school next week will jam available classrooms to bursting.

Some will study their lessons in school cafeterias. Some will have classes in church basements or lodge halls. Some will get only four hours of school a day, to make way for another shift.

Some teachers still will only get $2,800 for their year's work. Many have left. Some of the county school systems will have brand new teachers in half their classrooms. Classes will average 42 to a teacher in at least one county—against the state's goal of 30—and in isolated instances it may run to 50.

A high percentage of teachers will be "emergency certificated." They don't have all the schooling or other qualifications Maryland normally requires. But not enough fully qualified teachers can be found.

So, you assume, your child won't have a chance in public school to get as good an education as you did. The level of education surely must have dropped.

"Oh, no it hasn't," says Dr. David W. Zimmerman on behalf of the State Department of Education.

Why hasn't it?

Dr. Zimmerman bucks that question to Mrs. Grace Alden Dorsey, state superintendent of elementary instruction.

"We work like turks" says Mrs. Dorsey, pinning you with a determined look as she rallies her thoughts and experience for an opening counter-thrust.

"For one thing," she says, "our teachers are learning to know more about children."

Mrs. Dorsey then outlines for you the Child Study Program the Maryland schools have been pursuing since 1945.

A high percentage of teachers have been devoting at least four hours a month to it — two hours of it their own time. The state department conducts the course for principals and supervisors, they in turn pass it along to classroom teachers in the counties.

The purpose is to find out what makes children tick, what makes each tick differently, and why some don't seem to tick at all.

It's a combination course in psychology, sociology, philosophy and public health.

When it started seven years ago, everything was on a volunteer basis. Now many of Maryland's county school systems decline to sign up a teacher who won't agree to participate.

"For another thing," continues Mrs. Dorsey, "there's our language-arts program."

It works on the pattern of the Child Study Program, but its purpose is to improve the teaching of specific subjects and the specific emphasized most has been reading.

Mrs. Dorsey ticks off her points fast now: Better teaching techniques. Better testing methods. Better teaching materials. Big advances, worked out in many cases by the Armed Forces during the war, in visual aids — cartoons to drive lessons home, photographs, movies, working models.

Although a high number of Maryland teachers this year are not able to measure up to the "on paper" requirements for a fully qualified teacher, Mrs. Dorsey hazards the opinion the general level of classroom proficiency and devotion to the chore is higher.

Would you guess this year's teachers include a couple of men who bit off promising careers in atomic engineering because they decided there are rewards in teaching more important than the money you don't get?

"More parents are going to school than ever before," Mrs. Dorsey concludes.

She estimates there is nothing more important than this personal contact of parent with teacher in the effort to keep the level of education high in face of the adversities which beset the schools.

Some localities have even developed a "Child Study Program" for parents, searching for ways in which parents can help Junior learn without falling into the error of doing his artihmetic for him.

"We have good schools," Mrs. Dorsey says. "They're a good place to be."

Dr. John H. Fisher, superintendent of Baltimore's public schools, strikes a slightly different balance.

"The growing public interest in schools is something good that has come out of these bad days," he says.

"We have a plan of releasing our best teachers from some of their class work so they can circulate among other rooms and help less qualified teachers.

"One in six of our teachers is a 'substitute,' not fully qualified by our formal standards. Once in six years, a child is apt to have one of these substitutes for a teacher. We feel his other five will do such good jobs the child won't suffer for that one year.

"Certainly, the child is being affected adversely by these problems which face the schools. It is not that the quality of education has fallen below a generation ago. We just are not doing the job we would be doing if we didn't have the problems to contend with."

Safety Of Children On School Buses Poses Problem For Mineral County School Board

By ROSS W. PRYSOCK

The W. Va. State Road Commission appears to have passed the buck to the Mineral County Board of Education with a warning that certain bridges over which school buses must cross in carrying students to and from school in the rural districts are not strong enough to carry a bus load of students. The commission warns that if the buses carry a load beyond the prescribed load limit, and an accident occurs, the school board will be liable for damages.

H. L. Idleman, superintendent of Mineral County schools said at Keyser yesterday he has been advised that the School Board could be held liable if any of the bridges collapsed under the weight of the loaded buses and if there were persons injured. He listed the bridges as: New Creek, near the Blue Jay Tavern; Patterson Creek, at Reeses Mill; Patterson Creek, at Russelldale, and a small stream at Oakmont in Elk District.

Idleman said that if the bridges are not strengthened to carry the combined weight of students and buses, it will to necessary to unload and re-load the children at either end of the bridges, so the bus may cross empty and the children cross on foot.

The superintendent called attention to the extra danger at the New Creek bridge, where the children would have to leave the bus on the right side of New Creek road, walk across the highway, which is U. S. Route 220, heavily travelled and often times dangerous, then cross the bridge and again board the bus.

Apparently state road commission officials do not contemplate making any corrections in the bridges at this time, he observed, although no statements have been made on the matter, and the procedure recommended for handling the students may continue through a full school year, in all kinds of weather.

Idleman said the commission officials claim this would have to be the procedure unless the gross weight of the buses is lessened.

The situation is one of worry to many parents of children who must ride the buses to and from school. They face the danger of having their children badly injured or killed if a bridge should collapse under the alleged gross weight, and they face probable serious disease from exposure or from being struck by a moving automobile or truck on a heavily travelled highway when required to alight from the buses and walk across the highway, where traffic is heavy and many vehicles travel at dangerous speeds.
